KENTON COLLEGIATE

May 14, 1940

For the past few weeks the College has taken a definite stand on the inactivity of the Senior Council. We are now putting the finishing touches on a set of disciplinary rules. We are publishing them below.

Now that we are the student body, we are hoping to see it in the future. We congratulate the council on gaining the upper hand.

The Student Assembly shall be an ex-officio and non-voting member of the Senior Council.

Imels Hopes for Season Hit Set Back

Chuck Imels hopes for a successful season hit set back another setback when Bob Johnson, one of the C.A.A.'s leading backs, and brains, gave or sold a report to Parker and Ray's senior school, which is expected to be in shape for that game. The report will be sold at the school, and the dollars donated to the varsity sports fund.

The powerful Miami University backfield was expected to be in shape for the game and in the form of their worst game ever, which appeared not to appear as many reports an hour. Reporters are sure that Imels will come out and surprise the experts of the varsity sports fund.

The report suggests that the Miami University backfield will have some of their best work, and that Imels will have a good chance of breaking the school record.

Andre Philip Tells Kenyon Assembly of French War Arms

Dr. Andre Philip, Radial-Five creator of the Bytown Herald and Professor at the University of London, made a speech at the college assembly last Thursday morning on the topic: "Europe: A Myriad or Reality?"

Dr. Philip emphasized his audience with his rapid and intriguing manner of speech and his dry humor. "I believe that Europe is still a reality," was his opening statement. He continued, "It is becoming more of a reality every day instead of remaining into a myth in a way one might suppose."

Dr. Philip said that the real beginning of the present situation in Europe was in 1931, when Hitler came to power in Germany. This year marked the end of the post-war period and the beginning of the new pro-war period. In speaking of this situation, he said:

"From 1933 to September 1938 there was a very curious pause and from September 1939 until this week there has been a very curious war." This statement was followed by a short review of the events of the past year. In speaking of Hitler's annexation of Austria and his recent successful endeavors of Polish invasion, Dr. Philip remarked: "If history marched into a certain road, the statement that he would not match his stride and said that he was 'impressed.' He told the Polish story in the form of a riddle, the Poles being the people, and the French being the workers. When the Poles then tell him of the French how much they admired them, which was often heard, he would say: 'And how much they admired the Poles, the French would reply: 'Quite a long time ago.' This statement was followed by a review of the War in Europe since 1933.

"The French don't like military conquests, nor peace, nor a military force, and grammar, as they are fighting in order to be called by the color men six months in the future, to dress up in uniform and parade in the streets of Paris."

The beginning of World War II, Philip stated, was the war aims of the Nazi's and the Fascists; they are today.

1. To give independence to the smaller countries and France won't accept. Peace without independence isn't peace.

2. To control armaments. The League of Nations is not a center, organization which could control the manufacture and use of armaments.

The organization would probably be the same and the control of the speech, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of the press and freedom of the press would be the same. The French want a better form of government and a better government. The French are not satisfied with the government. It is not real but they do know that something of this type must be done.

3. To organize Europe on an international foundation. The French believe there should be a common monetary system, free trade, and a large information exchange. They would like the nations to unite in industry, building and agriculture in order to have peace and prosperity in Europe.

Five Seniors Made Charter Members of Press Club

Five seniors, Charles McKinley, Dick Leonard, Bob White, former editor Odell Coy, and our faculty advisor, George McKinnon, were chosen to be charter members of the newly formed Kenyon Press Club at the weekly dinner of the Collegian staff last Friday night.

The club is to act as an honorary society of men whose work on the Collegian has been of extra high merit.

KING GARY

Colonial Business Heads

Dr. Philip stated that there is the beginning of this economic unity in the cooperation between France, Britain, and France at the present time. It only took that these men began to set up into an international economic system that would let the industry, service, and economic of Europe and the countries of Europe be settled as the hit Hitler, the Nazis, or the German people.

In conclusion, Dr. Philip said, "Europe exists as a reality today and it will not degenerate. But Europe will be existed, either by the force of the totalitarian states, or by agreement of the democracies."

In spite of the efforts of the bureaucrats, the French have given determination to fight for the end.
