FULL COMMENCEMENT LURES MANY ALUMNI BACK IN JUNE

Over 250 Kenyon alumni will return to the "Hill" to enjoy their youth for four days at the 112th Commencement.

As is usually large inflow of men of class end- ing and is expected, according to the promises of Class gift-giving, to reach the 100,000 mark, with Ted Doller and Bob Horetz of '23, Wally Simon of '25, Buck Reinhart of '26, and Johnny Bigwood of '28 who is arranging the third-year reunion. The class shows up with the largest percentage of returning men with the William F. Potter crew, currently in the position of 136,756.

The Friday program includes Phi Beta Kappa initiations in Assembly Hall at 4:00, and the Banquet of the Audubon Society and Alumni in Peirce Hall at 6:30. Saturday, the meeting of the Committee on the Theological, in Assembly Hall at 10:00. At 11:00 the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees. From 2:00 to 4:00 and 7:00 the Class Reunions will be held at 5:00 scheduled tennis exhibitions on the Har Tru courts, and the alumni-varsity game Benson Field. From 9:00 to 5:00 exhibition flying by Kenyon's Mid-Wich- cai and bonus by the 7:00 the division banquet. The Alumni Council luncheon is set for 12:30 Sunday dinner in Peirce Hall, followed by the College Barbecue.

The One Hundred and Twelfth Commencement of Ken- ny College will take place from Saturday, June 9th through Sunday, June 10th. In the past, many alumni have attended the Alumni weekend to see the Alumni reunion and to plan their next meeting.

The Alumni Council wishes to extend to all alumni and students a hearty invitation to return to the HILL at this time and enjoy the festivities.

Attending the Commencement on Monday, June 9th, will be a veritable Who's Who in the world of letters. The following distinguished guests will be on hand:

- Kenyon graduates who will help to carry on the tradition of excellence.
- Notable alumni who have made significant contributions to society.

The College is proud to have a large and varied group of alumni attending the event, and we promise an exciting weekend filled with memories and renewed friendships.

Dr. Scott Buchanan, a guest of the college who will be on the stage for the Thursday afternoon program, will receive a warm welcome from the assembly.

The new era of politics will combine the best of both worlds, according to the United States Senator from Ohio, Harry M. Byrd, who will be the keynote speaker at the commencement.

The day's events will include the following highlights:

- New Era Comes To Politics
  - Lindberg, Boges, and Bakley Elected

In one of the election events on the campus in several years, Mr. John A. Lindberg, Dr. of Political Science, was elected to the coveted position of President of the Student Assembly. Mr. Wayne Boges of Lakewood was elected Vice President, and Mr. C. Newton Bakley of Drake, Phi Beta Kappa, was elected Secretary. Key political observers on the "Hill" have predicted that this new era of election for office has been ushered in. The one thing which impressed the entire campus was the utter lack of combination politics and other steam roller techniques. The first thing the "Hill" has been to see is the combination agreement for the presidency, a freshman's vote has been his own.

Mr. Boges is also a well-known personality on the cam- pus. He has been the business manager of the 1941 book, and was recently re-elected as president of the Student Club and on the executive council.

Bakley has played a significant part in campus af- fairs. He has been the business manager of the 1941 book, and was recently re-elected as president of the Student Club and on the executive council. Bakley has also been a key figure on the campus, and his ideas are highly regarded by the student body.

All three men have made enviable records scholarly, and are leading men in their respective fields.

The new era will also be marked by the addition of new student offices, and a change in the student council. The council will now be made up of a President, Vice President, and Secretary, and will be elected by the student body.

A PLEA FOR CLARITY

In the past there has been much complaint about compulsory chapel. Most of it was illegitimate, because, if the administration of the college sees fit, for a good reason, to make the chapel attendance compulsory, then every stipulation of the rule before they come to the college, there is no logical ground for complaint.

But it seems to me that there is one basis of complaint relative to the chapel that is both logical and legitimate. In the past, it has not received much of the world, but actually it is the major issue in regard to compulsory chapel.

Last Sunday some of the Freshmen chapel were unfortunately privileged to hear a most vague and unconvincing sermon about the ill of the world. The sermon dealt in only the most general way in the most inarticulate and poorest language, to the confusion only of all who listened.

And the church is in the world which cannot be ignored.

And the church has always asserted its ability to answer our questions.

Would the church be so wise to speak clearly to the point? Would it not if it answered its questions with facts, or at least a clear expression of the philosophical and theological background for the acceptance of pastoral? If so, it does not deserve to live, and if so, the college is itself the natural product of Union and of those who are sincerely seeking for knowledge.

And the church has always asserted its ability to answer our questions.

Dear dearest:

The University of Philosophical Literary Society founded in the year 1, reformed in 1825, and still living is the long aging and finally deformed friends, your dearest and truest guide of our illimitable offsprings, No P. Krupa, founded 1832, deceased 1931.

A word about the history of the deceased, N. P. Krupa was born in 1840, out of work, and nurtured on rebellion. Among its eminent alumni were Joe Jnow, a seven-year man, and Our Ginerberg, a prominent authority of Jewish literature. Since the initiation of three world figures—among whom they loved as brothers—Moses, Hitler, Stalin, and Mussolin, the society has been dedicated to paper-hanging, blacksinging, sabotage, and revolution. In the past few centuries the latter activity has assumed increasing importance. Last year, gentlemen gathering Batherford, H. Heyes, Edmond Bonton, and all the high muckamucks of Kentucky, gathered for the purpose of preserving the worthly life of the ancestor No P. Krupa. Out of the charity of the hearts and in consideration of good works as a means towards peace, Philosophy, Political Science, and Blood have decided to put aside their mutual hatred, and we are willing to let past racial indiscretions and your ignorance of mine be forgotten.

If the survivors of No P. Krupa will stand up in a straightforward way on Saturday, May 30, and apologize for their sins we will bring them on the world and extend Abe Lincoln's amnesty to those miserable, and our apologies.

Benton Davis '25

Nearly Recovered After Plane Crash

Benton W. ('Bowe') Davis, 22, C.A.A. pilot, has now undergone a successful operation in a surgical plane at an Alaska hospital. February 11th, Mr. Davis and his pilot were flying a freighter vehicle, when they went down in a small avalanche, which buried their aircraft in a snowdrift. Both men were buried for several hours, and the pilot was pronounced dead at the scene.

The rescue men had a difficult time reaching Mr. Davis, who was found trapped in his crashed plane and rescued from the steep, snow-covered side of a mountain. Another pilot landed near the plane and was able to make his way back to the hospital where he was taken to the emergency room. Mr. Davis has been transferred to the Yukon General Hospital where he is recovering.

At the time of the accident, Mr. Davis was on a trip to Alaska to deliver the mail to various outposts. He was flying a Cessna 172, which is known for its reliability and ease of maintenance.

Mr. Davis is expected to make a full recovery and return to flying as soon as possible. The accident has once again highlighted the risks faced by pilots in remote areas and the importance of having adequate rescue teams in place.

Discussin' Swing

Ann Charleston

Mr. Charleston, the popular band leader of the Swingers, has been praised by many for his swing arrangements of "A Lover's Lyric." The band, composed of the finest musicians in the country, has turned out many successful arrangements and compositions, and many outstanding. Mr. Charleston has improved his band's reputation ever since the opening of the new season.

The band has been playing at many prestigious clubs and has been invited to many other engagements. The Swingers have become a favorite with both critics and audiences alike.

The Record of the Week: The Swingers and the Twilighters have taken the top honors this week. The Twilighters have been playing in the background and have received praise from the critics. The Swingers, on the other hand, have been receiving more positive reviews than the Twilighters.

Mr. Charleston, who is well known for his talent in arranging for the band, has been praised by many for his contributions to the music world. His arrangements have been appreciated by critics and audiences alike.

Bexley Post - Easter Lectures In April

Dr. Richard G. Solomon, retired professor of mathematics at Bexley Post, delivered the annual lecture series in April. The series, titled "The Mathematics of Easter," was attended by large crowds.

On April 2 and 3, the natural history of Easter was explored at Bexley Post by Dr. Richard G. Solomon, former professor of Mathematics at Bexley. Solomon is recognized as a leading expert in the field of mathematics and has written extensively on the topic.

Solomon's lectures were well-received by the audience, and many were impressed with his ability to make the subject accessible and engaging.

On April 23, Solomon delivered lectures on the history and significance of Easter. These lectures were delivered to a packed audience and were highly anticipated.

Merrill More Discusses Lear

Last Wednesday night, at Theatrical Hall at 8:30, most of the college press was in attendance to discuss the most interesting topics of the past week. The most prominent topic of the night was the performance of "Lear" by Theatrical Hall. "Lear" is a well-known Shakespearean play, and the performance was given a high rating by most critics.

Edward Lear was a poet of the 19th century who is known for his lyrics and music. Lear's poetry and music have been admired by many over the years, and his work continues to inspire new generations.

The poetry of Lear has been studied by many, but his work has also been criticized for its archaic language and complex themes. The poetry of Lear has been widely praised for its beauty and profundity, and his work continues to be studied and interpreted by scholars and readers alike.

For the benefit of those who are interested, "Lear" is available at most bookstores and online retailers. For more information about Lear and his work, please visit the website of Theatrical Hall at William and Mary.

Kenyon Loses Track Meet To Findlay

For the first time in recent Kenyon athletic history the track met at its own meet was not favorably received. In the past regularity as well as schedule, the season had been complimented. The uniqueness of the new season made the meet an event of great interest.

The weather was not favorable to the performance of the Kenyon team from the standpoint of winning, as the sun seared the track at the time of the meet. The most notable achievement of Kenyon in this year's event was the first and second, and the third and the fifth, first and second place. By Kenyon, Kenyon and Kenyon in turn, the uniqueness of the event was achieved for the Kenyon team. High flight and fine performance in the contests they represented. Kenyon set a new meet record. After listening to the report of the meet, the team was able to win the first place. In the event of the Kenyon team competing with the rivals of the meet, Kenyon could have developed some good track material before next meet. While the track team stood at the front of the Kenyon team, towels were distributed to the boys, but could not distribute the towels to the boys, Kenyon could have developed the towels to the boys, and Kenyon could also have developed the towels to the boys, and Kenyon could also have developed the towels to the boys, and Kenyon could also have developed the towels to the boys. The second act was a battle between the meet with the rivals of the meet. While the Kenyon team competed with the rivals in the meet, Kenyon put away with deadly accuracy.

McNeill and Malloy Stage Good Match

The tennis team reduced some of the best prestige by defeating Miami University 3-0 on the third round match. It was the first total that the team had played that the Miami team had played on this morning. It was the second total that they had played, and they proved their ability to adjust their play to the changing conditions of the doubles.
