Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,

I would like to bring to your attention the issue of waste and misuse of resources in our community. It has come to my attention that there is a significant amount of food being wasted, especially in large events and gatherings. This is not only a waste of resources but also an environmental concern.

I urge you to consider implementing measures to reduce waste and promote sustainability. This could include initiatives such as food donation programs, composting facilities, and education on food waste reduction.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Meals are served in the Commons 220 days per year. The total cost per meal of these sets of meals every day would be approximately $1,270.00. It would be possible to cut our food budget by 20% of the total cost, if we were not buying it in retail stores, by the pound.

Now then, the question is, what will every student be in the Commons for every meal throughout the year, and including all the meals in which he may not have eaten?

Take breakfast, for instance. It is paid for, but many students do not eat breakfast (at least very liberal estimate) eat breakfast there. At 25¢ a head, they save on the other hundred who don't, 25¢ a day, or $30 a year on breakfasts alone! How many times have you come into a meal, and been served bread instead of the scheduled sweet rolls (as at breakfast the other morning) or something instead of the something else which should have been in the meal? Often! Why! There hadn't been enough ordered to go around. We have the number of students eating there. Twenty-nine, another saying. It is one of the causes the Commons. Extra profits.

They change the menu in a constant price for eating in the Commons, and in an end-works there are usually a dozen or more. Eat.

We have shown above what kind of meals could be prepared for Connemara football host at home. Is there any reason to show what we could get.

We are free to the sheep herd's last Saturday, and the cereal sold served as the main course a week ago Sunday. night to name two of the most flagrant examples. We serve more than just 75 meals per day; last year, couldn't cost the food allowance here even it

There must be a shocking profit made in the Commons this year, we believe.

At Sarah Lawrence College, we are told, they re

The student announcement for today: "May God bless you and keep you. Have a nice day."

We are just curious as to what is being done with the moneys in the Commons. It certainly doesn't go for food.

One of the components of a few weeks ago observed perhaps quite rightly that the editors of the "College Stew", in cooperating with the editors of the "Inchpin", are in the process of organizing a paper which will cover all the activities of the college.

It seems to us that this is a commendable idea, and we hope that the plans will continue along these lines.

In conclusion, we wish to express our appreciation to the editors for their efforts in this direction.

PATER TATTER

What may be considered as Harry James' masterpiece in his latest record entitled Concerto in Trumpet (135549) is the fact that this is a different thing to marvel at. If you appreciate precise and technical accomplishment on the instrument of your choice, then this is the record for you.

Larionov has also switched to Birdman and one of his recent additions is Boreo in Blue (189189). This is a slightly milder version of his usual style, but very good melody. The tempo is easy and a good deal of it is supplied by Terry Allen, who incidentally is way above the average.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. McKinley:

I wonder if this true for your first edition will be on sale October 25th?

Mr. McKinley:

Dear Sir,

I very much appreciate the factual information you provided in your last edition regarding the expansion of the library. It is a refreshing read.

Thank you,
