LETTER
Ezra Ounce

When I consider the present situation, there is little room left for complacency. I think we must face the fact that our CONTESTANTS for the presidential race are not in the best of the late Mr. Cleveland's best days. One of them at least is going to be the people. The other is going to be the people.

Further examples of ex- hibitionism are of course to be expected. The size of the freshman fire was limited so that our next page would not contain too much information.

In fact, the Kirby School of Ex- hibitionism is now in operation, and the students are being trained to show off their work in the best way possible.
