Otto. Forms

This winter Kenyon skiers will be able to join the new club, which has been formed by Paul and Cuba Chambray. The first meeting of the club has attempted in former years, if about food and outdoor enthusiasm, and that all included in the conference of the proposed club, which is very much better, however, for Kenyon has enough snow this winter to give enough snow to play in. As yet there is no formal planning for their trips, and the group will certainly learn and enjoy the cooperative work. The ski trip will be planned for the winter vacation, and the ski track will be at the end of the week.

Polanyi Speaks Before I.R.C.

Dr. Karl Polanyi, noted Hungarian historian and social commentator, will speak at Kenyon on Thursday, November 22, before the Intercollegiate Dramatics and Debating Assembly. He has been the recipient of several honorary degrees and is the author of several books on the topics of capitalism and the need for man to coexist with the natural world. His work has been translated into several languages and has been widely read and studied. Polanyi's ideas have been influential in the development of the modern understanding of the role of society in the economy.

KENYON REACTS MARSH REPORTS

Kenyon men with average memories will recall that Mr. James Marsh, Motion Picture Editor of the Kenyon Clarion, expressed a critical view of the new movie "The Pigeon," which was released in mid-October. The reviewer's opinion was that the film lacked the charm and wit that earlier works had possessed. The Kenyon community was divided in its response to the movie, with some praising its unique style and others expressing disappointment.

McNeill in Argentina

Don McNeill, one of Kentucky's prime sons, made another step towards adding another victory to his long list of championships when he advanced to the second round of the Argentine Singles tournament after overcoming Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, his opponent in the final match of this weekend, will be favored Co-oke of Portland, Ore. Not only has he starred in the singles, but also in the mixed doubles, and in the mixed doubles. In the former, with Guernsey as a partner he will meet Zappa and Castille of Argentina, in the latter, with Miss Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif, as a partner he will conclude the final match, which was halted due to darkness earlier this week, with the score tied at two sets apiece. With three titles in the bag McNeill faces the possibility of bringing about a complete blitzkrieg of Argentine tennis.

Football Team, Gay Old Time

Last Wednesday evening the Kentucky College football team, under the direction of coach Ludwig Heidler, dominated the team throughout the year, meeting in Richmond, Kentucky. The team introduced the spectators. The first of whom was Rudy Kolster who praised the team from a standpoint of improvement in spirit, morale and win and losses over previous seasons. The next speaker was Lou Telovsky who said, "At Michigan we have Karson, at Notre Dame they have seven men, and at Kentucky we have three hundred." He concluded by proposing that the teams line up the first time and wished Captain-Elect Faustoni a fine season.

Coaching Staff

Coach R. J. Kolster has issued a call for all men interested in varsity track to see him. There will be a special need for the 6th of January with daily callouts and Mr. Kolster says, "Only workers need apply."

last year one long to be remembered.

The final speaker of the evening was head coach Dwight Heidler who expressed his sincere appreciation for the cooperation the fellows on the team showed him this year pointing out that the prospects for next year have big shoes to fill. But with a concerted effort on the part of every fellow, freshman and returning varsity man, we should have even a more successful season from the standpoint of wins and losses.

President Clumkins concluded the meeting expressing his gratitude for the accomplishment the boys have made this year and hoped that next year the squad would carry on in the same light and would accomplish even greater heights.

The program included a dialogue between Garibaldi and Napoleon, an argument of the status of a donkey's shadow and the final episode in the life of Don Quixote. The songs include "Poor Dictators," "Every Man for Himself," "The Don Quixote," and "The Prince of the Rig." Each received a great ovation, and when their program was completed the popular demand forced the continuance of their discussions about the Saint, Bernard, although, as later confessions, they hadn't tried it since their last appearance here. The simple child like humor of these two gentlemen from Prague apparently has got the singing act that appeals to a Kenyon audience. As for the comedians themselves, their acts are something entirely new to us. If they are as successful in winning friends as in the great outside world, they are long here at Kenyon they will never have to kill a dog for their food.

POLYLANI

In the evening, under the auspices of the International Relations Club, D. Polyanly lectured on "Hitler, Hegel, and Rousseau," containing the thesis that the philosophy of Hegelian Panism, as a world movement, are to be found in the maxims of Hegel, from which the totalitarian concept is derived, and in Nietzsche's vision of a miscellanea of ingredients, primarily a creature of instinct, rather than reason, from which view arose the exalted themes of "blood and soil." Both doctrines, which deny altogether the individualization of Christian democracy and democracy, are based on Rousseau's "general will," which is interpreted by Hegel and Nietzsche as it is simply the will of one people to survive, Dr. Polyanly asserted.

CUTTER BETTER TASTE

Every time you light up a Chesterfield you know it is the Chesterfield's Cigarette, whereas the Grit's is called the Smoker's Cigarette. It's because Chesterfield's taste is the taste of the future, so make sure you have Chesterfields before you buy anything else. It's a better taste that you can't be sure of in other brands, and sooner or later, you'll be sorry.
