Robert Frost Here For First Half of Month Visit
Robert Frost, nationally known poet, will be here Monday for the first half of his month’s visit to Kenyon. In his role of visiting poet, Mr. Frost is to lead informal discussion groups in which the students will have an opportunity to discuss the poetry of the Alumni House, and we will attempt to bring our writing alive in the late morning or early afternoon.

Easter is Observed in Chapel Services

The story of the Resurrection and the promise of eternal life in song, liturgy, and lesson on Easter Day is an important part of the Holy Spirit at three services. The first was a Law Celebration of the Holy Communion at 10 a.m., choreographed by the Rev. Dr. T. V. Barret. The second was an Easter service at the Kenyon College School Children. Each service will include a prayer of blessing on the children and a white carnation as a symbol of both the natural and spiritual resurrection.

Singers To Present Informal Concert

In response to many requests, the Kenyon Singers are presenting another concert, the campus. The informal concert, as usual, will be held in Philo Hall next Monday afternoon at 7 p.m. of the numbers presented at the formal home concert on March 14, plus some Kenyon songs, will be sung again.

Two concerts away from Gambier are appropriate, one at Dublin, Ohio, on Monday, March 21, and the other at Mansfield, Ohio, a week later. The Mansfield concert, scheduled for Monday, March 28, will be given in several sessions, in the last one scheduled for Monday, April 4. The Mansfield schedules, no concert in Toledo, where the club has been appeared for the last three years, could be arranged.

Draft Expansion: Con

We didn’t protest when the conscription act went into effect because we thought that the draft far outweighed the inconvenience of being顺便. We accepted the plan and expected the process of one year from our youth, followed by four years, to be a full and conscientious renunciation to a necessary evil.

But recently two of our college editors, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover, said that they were against the conscription law and that they think that this practice should be abolished.

To view these two opinions voiced by two of the nation’s ablest editors, we can protest vigorously.

The idea of conscription is to us the idea that the draft should be universal and that Mr. Roosevelt thinks the United States should be, like most of Europe, in the military power from now on.

If our college is an army the basic fact of a nation’s military is the ability to wage war if its own power.

For this reason the present generation to be induced to fight is the most important of the conscription law. We hope not, and we appeal for discussions to maintain the principle of universal enlistment as much as possible.

As to lowering the draft age, wouldn’t it be better if the government would try to codify the draft plan with education and inducements to avoid the necessity of the war? When the time would result in the nation, they would sacrifice other vital aspects of the government and would immediately rise up.

For instance at the present time, our college editors are eligible for the draft, and if they were sentenced at least half of the present students would graduate in a very short time.

Other educational institutions would be affected in the same way we have learned of labor shortage, because of the conscription.

If we think it would be a better plan would be to encourage the government to codify the draft plan with education and inducements to avoid the necessity of the war.

If we have to draft, we believe that the logical thing to do would be between high school and college. Even then we think that it would be desirable if future high school germs were exposed to military training at an earlier age and that the plan be restricted to twenty-one is a very crucial period.

In the college student’s character, but at least if the draft is to be universal, we have set the chance of a significant duration of the college career, the leisure would be lowered. A definite age would be fixed, and those choosing men for the army. The man would receive a second college course, while if a definite period in their lives. We believe that the end would be more fair and less dangerous for the student.

One man may be found in schools, with family obligations, in the world of business, or at the point of finishing his college course, while young men who have just graduated from high school may be more equal.

Let us emphasize again that we are against the draft because it is a vital element of national defense. We are protesting against

Platter Patter

JENNY — MY SHIP (Columbia) EDDIE DUDIN

This lively tune of recent release, hit tune of the smash musical drama “Lady in the Dark” by Eddy Dudin’s musical crew is a hit.

My Ship’ was once the name of a beautiful Yankee Clipper, a ship of Pliny and as always with such that its playing is a scandal. Bob Gaty is the leader of the band and his record is a sure fire hit for Dudin.

A LITTLE OLD CHURCH IN ENGLAND (Ode) LOVE AGAIN (Ode) DICK JORGENSEN

Dick Jurgens, whose band has been heard in the latest recording field, has bobbed up with two additional sides which add to the mastrore. On “A Little Old Church in England” with Eddy Dudin’s band, a field vocalist sings.

The Judge’s Saxophone section can take a bow with this plat- oner. On the reverse is a danceable arrangement of “Lady’s Love Again. Led Quinn’s piano work is splendid.

UN, DOS, TRIS UN, DON UN, MONTIMO (Victor) ENRICO CARUSO

The popular Latin-American ballad, “Tres Triste en la inevitable,” is the south-of-the-border tempo, has been interpreted to the American ear by Victor and those are his first effort in that locale. Caruso and bolero enthusiasts will find this record most interesting.

MEN AND I SLOW DOWN (Bluebird) BOB TAYLOR

Chester’s greatest asset as a re- birth of the Lafeyette’s old records, listened to again and again. Chester records are no exceptions. “My Sister’s Gone Away” is the first of two stories, based on the painful thoughts of a man who has lost his loved one.

A Slow Down is a true story of life at college, or the academic field. It is a slow tempo time and Bill Burdull’s vocal takes a great deal of prominence in this. “Men and I” is just the reverse. It is a solid rock record and shows off the band’s instrumental process.

Gaby Now (Columbia) HURD BELL, SING & BAND

Record of the Century, “Gaby Now” by Hurd Bell and his Band. Another proof of the inventiveness of the songwriters and their ability to write a hit.

We would like to congratulate Miss Hester Butler of New York, who is the artist of the month. She came to town as a substitute for Miss Ethel Merriweather, who has been in New York for some time.

The New York Symphony Orchestra is now under the direction of TRES BERNAPOLOPIA. The orchestra includes violinists, viola players, cellists, and other instrumentalists.

In a musical track, the orchestra will perform works by various composers. The performance will take place in the New York Symphony Hall, which is located in the heart of Manhattan.

The concert is scheduled for Saturday, April 30. Doors will open at 7:30 PM, and the performance will begin at 8:00 PM. Tickets are available for purchase at the Symphony Hall box office and online. Special discounts are offered to students and seniors.

Join us for an evening of exceptional music under the baton of Enrique Caruso, as we celebrate the talents of our orchestra and the legacy of music in New York City.
ORD BASEBALL TEAM BLANKS OTTERBEIN

Southard Pitches Entire Game

Kenyon's Southard, giving up only one hit while striking out five batters for a second-year southpaw, walked on the edges of the strike zone and then threw behind the plate until nine looked like a real globetrotter. The base hit and steal has been seen as a James Younger.

The Kenyon team got a total of six hits while Otterbein struck out twice. The Kenyon pitchers were supplied when pitcher Southard had to go one inning, but the Wester-
