Dr. Doman to Address Assembly on Present War and Peace to Come

Speaker is Well-Known for Talks on Europe

"A World in Transition," a study of the present international situation and the possibilities of the peace which will follow it, will be the subject of Dr. Nicholas F. Parnas, who speaks at the College Assembly on Friday, October 7th.

Doman, a native of Austria, is known both in his own country and in the United States and Canada as a well-informed lecturer on Central European and International affairs. He was an international clerk-student at the University of Vienna, where he gained a master's degree. He has also studied at the universities of Oxford, London, Munich, the Universities of Vienna and Geneva, and the University of London, where he received his doctorate.

While in Central Europe, he attended several large international conferences, meeting many of the men who make today's news. Because of his extensive view of international affairs, Doman was invited to speak at the satellite meeting of the Central European University, a satellite meeting of the other problems of the Conference of European University at Chicago.

Doman has been engaged in the teaching of university and high school students, the organization of women's clubs, and the administration of various international organizations.

Doman's known services on leading radio networks include his work with the University of Chicago Round Table, a program connected with the research staff of the University of Chicago.

Books

Over a large part of the United States and Canada, Doman has found time to publish several political and economic articles. His next work, "Masses and Money in the 20th Century," will be published by John Day in November.

In his new work, the author, in his customary style, will examine the role of the masses in the twentieth century, and in particular, the function which the masses will perform in the development of a new world order.

Doman is the author of several other books, including "The Masses and the Money in the 20th Century," which is scheduled for publication in November.

Stacks Overcrowded — So Library

Books Are Moved to Fireproof

By Don May

While heaviest destroy the records of ancient art and letters in the counties of the United States, Doman points to the library of the University of Chicago as being one of the safest in the country.

Over there is no danger of fire, and few Americans feel thankful that these rare and precious volumes are safe.

At the Athens, Ohio, County Library, however, no such guarantee is given. The books are kept in the library's main building, which is no place for valuable books.

At Kenyon College, however, the books are being taken to guard their ever-increasing store of valuable and potentially valuable books and manuscripts. The library staff has been working hard to remove the books and to record an effort that the library is making to preserve its valuable collections.

With careful selection on the part of the college, the library's collection has made up its mind to leave a book untouched.

The reason for this action is the need of the college in the college's necessity rather than their choice. The books have been inadequate to the needs of the college, and in addition, the college is in great danger of losing its valuable collection.

Already some of the material has been sent, and in the next few days it will be sent to the college.

The volumes of university and college books, as well as the Kenyon College catalogs, are moved to a safe and fireproof library.

Some of the books will be stored in this

"Brassbound" Rehearsals Begin with Trial Cast

Captain James Bond of the first play being written for the college's fall musical, "Brassbound," began rehearsing Monday evening. A trial cast, with some changes yet to be filled, was working industriously to make the show come in for ten October performances.

Meanwhile, the cast of the fall musical presentation, "Paul Jones," has been reorganized and is directed by the first production. The cast of "Paul Jones" is scheduled to open on Monday, October 12th, with Thomas C. Bonnihead in the role of the famous pirate.
Bringing in the sheaves

In this week's column, the author discusses the actions of the students in relation to the various actions of the administration in the school. The author explains that there was an aura of unrest and tension moving on the Hill, and that the community was growing increasingly aware of the surrounding community appearing in the form of the Mountain Monthly and other similar bulletins. The author states that these developments helped to clarify the issues at hand and to bring immediate solutions, leading to a better understanding of the situation.

This is a continuation of last week's article on the social life in garria and the Balkans in general.

As I have said before, the motion pictures shown in American are the only entertainment available for the students. This week's release, which was the only picture of the year, has one scene which you can only see at the beginning of the picture as soon as it ends. There is no uniform price for admission and, instead of buying a ticket, you pay what you can afford. The movie is not silent, but there is no sound section. But I can assure you that no one wants to sit in America, at least in the interior of the theatre where all the students can see what goes on. The ticket price varies according to what you choose the seat you want, which is paid for in advance, and you can buy tickets if you are developer of the distance from the movie. Course, doesn't even have a seat number. You don't have to be seated by a number. The most expensive seats are in the front of the American picture. The most popular actors and actresses are those who have worked on the American screen in the past. The best-known performers are those who have appeared in the movies, with a few exceptions, the most famous being "W帆er Wan", the famous American actor who has recently returned to his native country. He is known from Johann Strauss music, as he is a in general, one thing which the European notice when they visits this country is the people who do not stand out as much as they do in Europe.

The habit of visiting is more pronounced than in it is in Europe. The people in the Balkans are a travel-worn people, but not as much as the people in Europe, and they do not stand out as much as they do in Europe.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of the "College Digest":

I am writing to express my concern about the appointment of the new President of the College. I believe that the President is not the best candidate for the position.

Our meetings are planned to be held on a weekly basis, and I think that the President should be present at these meetings.

I think that the President should be present at these meetings, and I think that the President should be present at these meetings.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Mary Jones

To the Editor of the "College Digest":

I wish to correct a mistake that I made in last week's issue. I stated that "College" was on page three of the article, but it is actually on page two. I apologize for this oversight.

I think that the President should be present at these meetings, and I think that the President should be present at these meetings.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me.

Monck Stars as Lords Beat Otterbein 12-7

Sophomore Runner Carries Ball
48 Yards to Score First Goal

The Monck team, led by Coach Bob Norton's "team of riders," has taken to the playing field now of era football when the season opened at Kenyon College Oct. 4, after trouncing the Otterbein Lords 12-7, a day that marked the fifty-first anniversary of Kenyon football at Kenyon. Scoring into the first quarter and another in the second, Lords only held the Cardinals to a lone mark in the second quarter, limiting the scoring to 12-7.

Sophomores Myron Monck, who lived up to advanced notices as a star player, and All-Ohio first baseman J. Paul Foster, drew the benefit of the initiative George Herrick, captain of the football staff. Above all, they urged to spicciness of the offensive and the defense. At the close of the first quarter, the meeting was adjourned.

"A GOOD BEER IS IN SPITE"
Tunis Quotes Sassoon Poem

A man well known to Kenyon students, Mr. John F. Tunis, noted writer on sports and education, spoke at the college assembly on Oct. 8. Faith in democracy and in the future of our country, a subject selected for "Timeliness," was the topic of Mr. Tunis' speech. He quoted Sigrid Sassoon and W. Horcroft-Maugham to emphasize the various points of his address.

On Wednesday, Oct. 8, the members of the "Collegian" staff were guests at a dinner in honor of Mr. Tunis. Editor-in-Chief John Goldsmith introduced Tunis, who gave a short speech of encouragement to students aspiring to be authors. Speaking of the difficulties of a writer, Mr. Tunis suggested means by which they could be overcome. He emphasized the importance of perseverance and application in becoming a successful writer.

Mr. Tunis, a frequent visitor at Kenyon, received his A.B. degree from Harvard University and is earning his career as a sports writer. Mr. Tunis has held such positions as Sports Editor of The New York Times and a sports editor for the Davis Cup. Material for his books has been compiled from several books, including CHOOSING DEMOCRACY AND CHOOSE YOUR COLLEGE.

Mr. Tunis' speech was well received by the locale, the setting of the building among broad expanses of grass and towering trees. The finest equipment for the aim of any college that I have ever encountered. Its atmosphere would offer great opportunities for student contemplation.

Mr. Tunis is one of the leading professors of Kenyon, born in York, Pennsylvania, to a family that has known great success. He has a law degree from Yale University and was President of the Class of 1926. Upon his graduation, he wrote a thesis on "The Future of the British Commonwealth of Nations" and received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. His thesis is the first in a series of papers which Mr. Tennant wrote at the Canadian Royal Commission on Commonwealth Provincial Relations. His commission, which he wrote his report in 1940, was appointed to look into the future of the British Commonwealth in the eyes of the medical and scientific world. It is a sure foundation of Dick Mann is ESPN, an author of "Time, Place, and Fate." The "found" is well-liked and corrected for by Paul P., who is a student of the Brown University. A number of words are taken with the position, and the topics are looking forward to attending his first high.

Traffic Laws

The K-12 vehicles, which are not part of the high school student body, will be directed to the left of the road and the bus is required to adhere to the right lane. The penalty for violating these rules will be a fine of $100. These laws are designed to reduce the number of accidents on our roads.

Although not of that faith, Dr. Kraft has many articles in the "Monitor" about the British Commonwealth.

Consider this a magic trick that could be even better with your effort. The British Commonwealth.
