Dance Tonight 10-2; Combo Party 2-5
Arnold Air Society

The members of the Arnold Air Society are planning to make the annual Military Ball a "small Dance Weekend" in the words of Al Heffernan, president of the society.

Besides the Ball itself, which will run from 10 to 12 o'clock tonight, there will be two combo parties in the hangar from 2 to 5 o'clock. Further on, Joe Marler will supply the music at both functions. Of course there will also be free beer at the dance and at the combo party.

In order to ensure full participation in the gala weekend, the society has formulated a plan whereby the fraternities can pay a blanket sum of $40.00 which will admit all members of a fraternity (and their dates) free to both affairs. Or, a fraternity may waive the fee, in which case the price would be $2.50 per person for both functions.

Those interested in a combo are to be announced. ROTC cadets are required to wear their uniforms. Those in the armed services may wear suits, preferably dark flowers are not necessary.

At ten o'clock there will be a reviewing line for the ROTC cadets and their dates.

Peter Vieroe, political prewriting major, has been added to the list of speakers for the conference on the "Essentials of Freedom" to be held here in April. Mr. Vieroe's topic is "The Freedom of the Artist?" Still to be named is a representative of the armed forces to discuss freedom and the armed forces.

However, General Maxwell Taylor has promised to send one of his aides. The general will himself be available during the conference.

Mr. Vieroe has published diversely in the literary arts. His collections of poetry include Terse, Decoys, Stock Through the Shack, and The First Meeting. He has also published studies of history and politics including his Name and Glory of the Intellectuals, and Dream and Responsibility. The President Between Poetry and Essay.

His most recent book is entitled The Unadjudged Man. Mr. Vieroe has taught at Harvard, Smith, and Mount Holyoke. He has also served as the Whittier lecturer in poetry at the Library of Congress. Louis M. Lyons, head of the Department of English, is confident that the selection of Mr. Vieroe will be an asset to the discussions and the result of his views.

The President reviewed the history of the Anglican Church in this country and the way in which this country has progressed from strong but isolated parachutists to a church of unity and religious simplicity. He noted that the expansion problem of the Church, through mission work, was not really faced until after World War II and since then the missions field has been working to expand its borders.

It is the task of each member of the Church to work for this unified effort.

Professor Raymond English, the conference director, will travel to Cleveland to discuss the program of the affair on television later this month. Several of the speakers will travel to Cleveland during the session to be interviewed by television news commentators.

SHERRIE SPEAKS ON CHURCH OPPORTUNITIES

The Rev. Henry Knox Sherriell, president of the Protestant Episcopal Church, spoke here Tuesday evening in the Church of the Holy Spirit to a large group of Beystly students, faculty and undergraduate graduates, his subject, "The Opportunities for the Church Today." Bishop Sherriell sounded a note of optimism for the task of the Church, in the parish, the diocese, in the Anglican Commission, and in the world — for the future. He told his audience that each churchman's task was to build a united organization with a unified program and task. "We have to move forward as we are given the opportunity and the strength in which to do so," he said.

The purpose of his talk was, as he said, to "extend the boundary of those preparing for the ministry and all churchmen." He emphasized that "discipline is not the result of conviction, but the result of understanding the task=".

Bishop Sherriell spoke as part of a variation to Beystly Hall by officers of the National Council of the Church. The "right" was one of many to be held to all the Episcopal seminaries in the country.

Constitution To Be Changed
Kenyon undergraduates will be asked to advise 88 changes in the form of changes in the Student Council Constitution at an important meeting of the Student Assembly this Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. in the speech building.

Council President William Wainwright urged all students to attend the meeting, which may be called as a compulsory assembly. The constitutional changes, the first major ones in several years, will have a great bearing on the function and character of this student organization in the coming year.

The changes have been prepared through an extensive study by the Student Council committee organized last fall and have been approved by the Administrative Committee. Changes that need consideration are the structure of the student body for final approval.

The changes include council members, student body, and executive committee of the student body for final approval.

Mainly Concerned With Kitchen Improvement
The acting president emphasized that the improvement was primarily concerned with the kitchen facilities rather than Beystly Hall in general. The object of the expansion will be a more efficient and economical preparation of food, that will allow significant other improvements in the kitchen facilities.

There is no anticipated change in the structure or general appearance of the building, he said, and thought that the facilities, as they are now, will be improved. Final details rest of course on the plans which will be drawn by the consulting architect. There will be no alterations in the Great Hall with the exception that several new tables will be added to better accommodate a student body that has outgrown the present facilities.

A SOCIAL SORT OF THING

No college can make any claim to an adequate program for its curriculums, well organized and operated social program. But student necessities has his own preferences about his social life, but the college and fraternity still must meet the demands of the group. If these demands are not met, college morale and the genuine appreciation of college by students is lost.

It has become increasingly apparent that the social program of Kenyon College is not what it should and could be. Kenyon is not socially defined by any means, but it seems that the social life we now have is not open enough to all. In the past the past has been both outdated and seems quite ineffective.

To these who tend to disregard the social aspects of college life by saying that it is unnecessary, we must come back with that old adage, "Men's nature being largely groupistic," etc., and add that the native influence of Kenyon have a good deal to do with keeping the character of the student body above a common place start and stop. It has been said that a Kenyon graduate is a combination scholar, poet, and social being. Through we may try as far as we can to make each man that leaves the hill with or without his degree attains much of an excess in all of these three categories, the forces which takes their men may still be acknowledged.

We are not criticizing the social activities of Kenyon, but merely the way in which the student body and the administration goes about arranging for and conducting them. Kenyon has a unique social problem of which we are all patting ourselves on the back. Properly so, because the cooperation of the students and the administration. The blame does not lay fully with the administration, though many of us are quite willing to put it there.

Some of the problems are:
1. A lack of communication in the paternal rulers or elsewhere of the administration's policy concerning social events.
2. An apparent lack of trust in the student body as a whole in the social life of the college.
3. Peer planning on the part of the college social committees.
4. The rising cost of expenses for college social functions.
5. Lack of facilities for students to entertain during town on campus.
6. An apparent disregard on the part of the students as to how their social fee is spent.
7. The disappearance of social unity among the fraternities on the Hill.

The above are among the list of "troubles" that may be heard from undergraduates. But we cannot expect much to be accomplished with the social life of Kenyon in the way that goes every good and bad in your fee and has expressed dissatisfaction with change. On the positive side of the ledger we must acknowledge that the flagrant damage to school and college property has been cut down; an achievement much to the credit of the President and Council. In the decline of college dances other than the two dance weekends about 1948 has done a great deal to take some of the pressure off the big weekends. Although the students have not led to student dissatisfaction are not solidly presented within the next few months, we must run the risk of being forced to accept the changes that have been made.

The Collegian reminds the student body that there are profitable and proper outlets for registering social problems and if these outlets are not utilized progress can be hoped for. And it minimizes the administration that what waste in the students, it cannot help exprs less in its policies.

We can only hope that he has this perspectivity. Much has been made, in the past and at the present time, of the lack of intellectual spirit being necessary. Is he not without knowledge of the genius of the generation of the conference lie only on the level on which it is primarily directed, but on another level also, which is perhaps more effective, and is directed to the further development of students. This would be in line with the main with his first level, we still maintain that more subtle subtle about freedom will still come from the speeches and discussion, and it is our function to present this spirit of truth and investigate the truth. This is what the Collegian will take as is task during the coming conference.

No less a man than Socrates once said that the reason he was the wisest man in Athens because he knew and thought that he knew the least. This would hold true for Socrates. We hope we have come not only to reason about the concepts of freedom will be not cut and dried, but as they seem to the older generation who have made themselves into a "pragmatic" faction. It would not come at all in the search for knowledge and we if merely accept untruth which is being fed to the student body. A side note of submissiveness sounded in the last Spokesman is quite justified.

For Persimmons

In the last issue of the Collegian a letter appeared, written either by a member of the Kenyon College staff or student. The letter addressed Kenyon students for over drinking, ending with "Alcohol is dangerous especially to the younger students and, I am thankful that the level-headed boys of Kenyon may have some reason and understand them". This is just what we need to have a "social sort of thing".

The Spokesman has raised a problem that is always confronting the college. The college is thinking this policies remain as they are; or should the administration lay restraints and, as the letter suggests, sound a "line in the sand"? What makes this letter more pertinent is that lately undergraduates have become aware of a thing which might be called "administrative calvinistic threats" to the social atmosphere at the college.

During the annual Fall Occasion Week either the President of the College or the Dean makes the remark that Kenyon is not trying to teach us as much as trying to make us conform. Those who cannot learn usually do not finish at Kenyon though many try. When they fail, the aspects of this type of education must be examined—the social at the academic; both are interrelated. The present policies on alcohol, might have a method of teaching control. Those who do not learn from this, are never fully academically. At any rate, the certainly do not benefit from it; in most cases, stay at the college.

Unfortunately, the towns in the area are quite filled up with people who have never learned to count and drink, people who can't even, with a bit more license than the city of nature allow. Drinking is a "problem". It is a "social sort of thing".

In certain respects it is a way of attorneying maturity; those who learn from this, are never really adepts at social sort of thing. And people, in college today with back, cut or curtain drinking problems, are never really, these people have a difficult time adjusting to alcohol in late life, if they adapt themselves.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR GROWTH JOBS

in the fields of Advertising and Marketing

Procter & Gamble has openings for young college men of promise and ability in its Advertising Department. While the openings are all within the framework of Advertising and Sales Promotion, the nature of the work is Marketing Management rather than "handling advertising" as most people understand it. For this reason, specialized training or experience in Advertising or Marketing is not required. Good general business potential, a high degree of native intelligence, and the ability to work smoothly with many types of people will be considered foremost.

In the last ten years alone, Proctor & Gamble sales have increased from $336 million to over $1 billion. This rapid expansion, plus our policies of always filling higher level positions by promotion from within and advancing people individually and rapidly as soon as they are ready to move up the ladder, creates a truly outstanding opportunity.

A brief description follows of the various careers now open in the Procter & Gamble Advertising Department.

BRAND MANAGEMENT—The marketing problems of each of our brands are handled by a separate staff of Marketing Management men. Men employed for this work are trained to manage and be responsible for the effectiveness of the over-all Advertising and Promotion effort on an important, nationally advertised brand. These positions involve working with many Company departments, including the Research and Development Department on product development, the Sales Department on the development of promotions, and with the Advertising Agency on all phases of planning for the brand.

COPY SUPERVISION—Copy Supervisors manage advertising copy operations on our brands principally by: (1) representing the Company in a close working relationship with our agencies on all phases of the development of advertising copy and (2) evaluating agency copy proposals in the light of product facts, marketing objectives, and background knowledge of effective selling techniques. These men do not write copy; this is a function of our advertising agencies. However, within our Advertising Department, they are responsible for the over-all effectiveness of advertising copy operations in radio, television, magazines and other media.

MERCHANDISING—Merchandising men develop store promotions involving groups of Company brands, select and develop premium articles, manage the country-wide sampling and cooping operations, assist the Sales Department in conducting trade conventions, and operate contests, mail-ins, and other forms of promotions.

MEDIA—Media men guide the Company in the investment of advertising appropriations. Working with the advertising agencies, they develop media plans on each brand using radio, television, magazines, newspapers, etc.

A PROCTOR & GAMBLE REPRESENTATIVE WILL BE AT KENYON MARCH 25th

A Supervisor of Personnel for the P & G Advertising Department, will be at the Placement Office, Monday, March 25th.

The Ohio State Lantern, the daily student newspaper at the Columbus school, has received severe criticism for printing some rather dubious student comments on a “Religion-in-Life Week” on the campus. Some of the comments printed below were either denounced for being tramped up, or lauded for being “honest.” A few of the more colorful comments revealed by the “Lanterns” were: “What a bunch of baloney, I would rather go down to the Berg and drink beer.” The program is too bourgeois for me. I’d like a more stimulating metaphysical discussion of religion than the "gazured for the masses" tripe they’ll be handing out during religion week... I find my four hours of daily prayer and my monthly fasts satisfy my inner needs for religion... This campus can think up more worthwhile programs than any place I’ve ever seen.” Whether the OU paper’s reporter set down and thought up some comments concerning the religious week which is prevalent on many college campuses, or actually got them from students, be succeeded in finding a pretty good cross section of negative opinion.

Bloodmobile
On Thursday, March 14 the Knox County Chapter of the American Red Cross brought the Bloodmobile to Kenyon College. Over 170 students donated a pint of blood to the bank but the goal was short by 25. The necessary amount of pints was too to 225 but only 179 were received. The following is the tabulation of donors by division:

“Hika” Out Soon
Hika will be out soon, there are the words of editor Todd Ben- dter. Hika told the College that the forthcoming edition will contain two important features: prize winning poetry and essays. Bennett said that Melyn Bar- ton’s poems are to appear. Barton was the recent winner of the Robert Frost Poetry Prize. An essay enti- tled Anatomy of Appleby which won the Hika Award for an essay best depicting contemporary undergraduates attitudes (not necessarily Kenyonians) is also to be published, and James Penson’s poetic works Parsons is a recent winner of a De- Rutschbend Fellowship to Kenyon (for poetic excellence. Hika related the fact that manu- scripts were few too few in their submission and in the future more submissions would be greatly ap- preciated. The only move we can now make is to wait for hika, hika, hika!

Two Kenyon swimmers established conference records during the Lords’ sweep of the OC championships March 2 at Oberlin. John Howard, left, set a new 200-yard breast stroke mark in the book; and Day Ray, right, performed the ‘iron man’ feat of smashing the records in the 200-yard butterfly and the 440-yard freestyle, as well as being a member of the record-setting 400-yard medley relay team. Both swimmers will be competing in the NCAA championships at the University of North Carolina campus March 28-30.

Six Lords In NCAA Meet: Kenyon Wins Tenth Crown

Six members of Kenyon’s Ohio Conference swimming team are entered in the 5th annual National Collegiate Athletic Association Swimming Championships to be held in the Bowman Gray Pool on the University of North Carolina campus at Chapel Hill, North Carolina on March 28, 29, and 30.

They are Ted Finston, Skip Karns, Dan Ray, Dave Bumsam, Tom Wilson, and John Howard. Finston and Karns will both swim in the 100- and 200-yard freestyle events and in the 440-yard freestyle relay team. Ray is slated to compete in the 200-yard butterfly, 440-yard freestyle, and the 400-yard freestyle relay events. Bumsam is entered in the 100- and 200-yard freestyle sprints and the 400-yard freestyle relay.

SWIMMING FINALS SLATED TUESDAY

The top three competitors for the national swimming title in the meet to be held will be Middle pennant, East Division and Middle Hanin. The best times in last Tuesday’s preliminaries were turned in by swimmers from Kenyon and Middle Hanin. All the entries will be out except the diving and the 200-yard medley relay.

The latter was not held because only one team qualified to compete in that event.

SCORING RECORDS

Schori, Crawford

TAKE O.C. TITLES

Dick Schori had a few dangerous moments last Saturday night, but after it was all over, he could lay claim to an athletic success that no Kenyon wrestler has achieved during the last history of the rugged and tumble sport here at Kenyon.

The freshman grappler, who also holds a Proctor and Gamble scholar ship here and the prize in Physiology, went undefeated in nine dual meets during the regular season and then at the meet knocked off three opponents in one day to win the conference title in the 157-pound class.

Along with Bob Gove and El Crawford, Schori made it into the semi-finals of the Ohio Conference tournament held at Denison last Saturday. Gove boxed out in the final afternoon round, but Crawford and Schori were both able to get into the finals and attempted to get a little rest before the title matches at night.

After watching Oberlin sweep the field, it was Bob Gove, 5’10” Mark

Shepard Denison’s Mike Mahon, runner-up in that division last year, beat a pair of cows 7-6. After picking up a good point advantage, Schori rode out the rest of the match and finally the final minute of the third period when Mahon desperately tried, and all attempts to score were blocked.

Crawford Finally Gets Desired Laurel

Not to be outdone was El Crawford, Kenyon’s all-muscle heavy weight man who combined good offensive ability and excellent wrest ling to defeat Akoun’s John Daily for the heavyweight crown.

A leading competitor for three years here, Crawford finally achieved the laurels he so richly deserved by wrestling the league in his final year and scoring his first. And he did it in such a way that the hand full of Kenyon supporters could be true to their expectations.

Daily injured his left elbow during the first period of the match but refused to quit. Crawford, showing some fine sportsmanship, deliber ately avoided any chance to capitalize on his advantage and scored a win, 2-1, a fitting victory for the lone wrestler and competitor.

Yeomen Win Crown

Oberlin’s grapplers, showing good depth, walked away with the OC title with 34 points. Akoun was second with 20 points, having five men in the finals, though only one won his weight division. The Big Red from Denison, who had the advantage of some good draws in the preliminaries, took third with 16 points and were the only team to finish fourth with 16. This marked the best conference performance by a Kenyon wrestling team in the history of the university.

Schori in Action

JOCK JOTTINGS

Larry Schneider

It is indeed unfortunate that Kenyon did not fare better in the swimming, as the swimmers finished in a tie for 11th place at Denison last weekend.

With a little luck the Lords could have finished second in team points if several men had drawn different opponents in the opening rounds. Plain Dave Katz, indeed this year’s second best man in the conference at 137 pounds, drew defending champ ion Hank Danenceu of Oberlin in the first round. Norm Armos suffered the same fate, but his was not quite as bad. Defending the 150-pound titlist in his opening match. The result was that both Katz and Armos lost and Kenyon received no points in two of the classes in which they expected to score heavily.

This column has not intended to pass an excuse for the performance of the wrestling team, but rather to explain why they finished fourth and also to question why some of the pairings were unfair.—Special congratulations are in order for Schori and El Crawford, who topped the 154-pound and heavyweight class crowns.

Skip’s Big Problem

There is a general agreement among onlookers on baseball that the determining factor in a winning or a championship team is the quality of the pitching staff. This has held true at Kenyon where the caliber of the pitching has usually coincided with the overall team record. Last year the Lords were blessed with several fine hurlers and adequate defense, but due to a lack of depth in the pitching division the season’s record was far from impressive. This year Skip Eppstein’s nine may surprise a few teams for they have in captain Pat Willett, Clark Holmier, and Ron Benneman three fine hurlers, but more important Skip has three outstanding freshman pitching prospects, neither Alf Frost, Bill Willett, or Walter Bames are easily to outduel this spring Kenyon could possibly be a trip contender for conference honors this year.

With the lacrosse opener only two weeks away there is a general uncertainty among lacrosse enthusiasts as to the potential of each four-year student. It is well known that the squad is not large and that there is a lack of depth and experience in the midfield, but barring unforeseen injuries the Lords appear to be capable of defending any team in the midwest and giving any opponent on their Eastern trip a good battle. The key men for Coach Stiles are co-captain Kurt Riessler, two-time All-Midwest defenseman, Charlie Odyke, honorable mention All-American goalie, and Don Peppers, the Lehigh key attackman. If these Hooeber could justly be ranked, the Lords would probably have one of their finest, most-balanced attacks in years.

Bummsted All-Confereince

Kenyon’s high-scoring co-captain Don Bummsted was named to the International News Service All-Conference first team. He was the only Kenyon player to gain any recognition on this honor squad. Other players selected were Lenny Nzieni, who was also one of the most valuable player in the Ohio Conference, Lou Mitchell of Denison, Don Talbert of Mt. Union, and Mike Outcall of Capital. Dan垩 150, a manager, was named MVP award. Bummsted amassed a total of 1150 points in 65 games as a Lord, for over a 17-point-per-game clip for his career. These figures mark him, scoring-wise, as Kenyon’s second greatest basketball player—behind Eppe Rivas, son of the Cincinnati Red pitcher, who bucketed 1537 points during his four years here. Rivas played four games as a freshman in 1941 in Round Hall, went into the service return in 1943 to 1947 for 17 games played in the Mount Vernon High School gym while Wetherfield Field House was being completed. The loyal center had his best year as a junior when he averaged 25 points per game.

Middle Loudoun, one of the top contenders for the Stiles Trophy (intramural supremacy), added more points to its growing total last Saturday with a victory in the final shooting competition in the field house.

Dan Smith, Bob Anderson, Jim Cox, Jim Truesdale and Jim Richdi, combined to give the Dets a total of 90 scores out of a possible 125. Smith was the top man on the team with a total of 20 out of 25.

Top score for the competition was Middle Harvard's Bill DeLand er with a total of 21.

New Equipment Slated

The proposals reviewed and tentatively accepted by the trustees also include a considerable amount for the purchase of new equipment including new ovens, deep fryer and conversion of the dish washing system into an assembly line method, and a garbage disposal unit or sink to handle all needs.

Acting President Bulley emphasized that we are not going into debt until we have to and I certainly hope we shall never have to! There is no expectation that the present plan of the commons will be changed, only the manner in which the food to be served is prepared. The big problem is getting the money to pay for it all; a problem which stands before us and every improvement the college seeks to make in its physical plant.
