Security Officers Enter Ruff Apartment, Students Charge Violation of Legal Rights

Apparently acting on the orders of Campus Security Officer James Case, two campus policemen, Jack Harris and Rex Rowley, entered the off-campus apartment of Gordon Ruff and Alan Vogeler at approximately 2:10 a.m. Sunday. The two collecers allegedly entered the apartment without permission and without identified themselves.

It was reported that Town Marshal Charles Inez told the Secuity Office that two men were present in the apartment, in violation of College regulations. Mr. Inez allegedly drove the two men from the apartment, and waited outside while the security check was made. No violation of any regulation was found.

Ruff stated that he was in bed when he heard a loud knocking on the door of his residence. Believing it was a group of students, Ruff did not answer. When he did not answer, the security officers entered the apartment and proceeded to search the first-floor living area of the two-story building.

Approximately five minutes later, guided by flashlights, the officers made their way up the stairway to the bedroom on the second floor. When Ruff called out, "Who is it?" what do you want?" they replied, "Security check." Harris and Rowley

On Sunday afternoon, Ruff and Vogeler, who was not present during the alleged investigation, met with several other students including Edward Pettigrew, Michael R. Burr, Warren Swara,

John Schofield, Peter Huvirt, Edward Edahl and Dixie Long. It was decided that there was the possibility that the tenant's rights of Ruff and Vogeler had been violated. Continued on page 4, col. 1

Dylan and Lake Choir to Sing

Keatingan Bob Dylan and the Lake Erie College Choir will both perform at Kenyon this weekend, promtting an unusually diverse and rewarding series of musical entertainments.

Dylan is to perform at Rose Hall

Friday evening at 8:30. Tickets are on sale in front of Denson Edwards, between Avenue Hall and Campus Hall. The cost will be

$1.00 for College students and children, $2.50 for guests.

Bob Dylan is best known for his rough style which is coupled with an instrumentally virtuoso and powerful voice. He writes many of his selections, which he chooses the problem. Dylan faces the young person entering the world as an adult.

Last Monday the New York Times, in a review of a Dylan concert, called him "brilliant."

On Saturday evening at 8:00 the Lake Erie College Choir will join the Kenyon Singers in Concert. The Lake Erie Choir will present a selection of madrigals, and will join with the Kenyon

Singers in an English version of Brahms' "Nanis," a work described by Prof. Frank T. Len-dric as a "veritable cantata." The Kenyon Singers will sing several spirituals and folk songs in addition to the Brahms work with Lake Erie.

The concert, which will be held in Dempsy Hall, is free, and the

This is the first time in several years that the Lake Erie College

Choir has come to Kenyon. The group, consisting of some fifty girls, will also join the Chapel

Choir at the Church of the Holy

The Judicial Board

In the last issue of The Collegian, we commented on the haphazard manner in which the Judicial Board hands down judgments, we charged a lack of continuity, and we stated that the Judicial Board had reduced Social Probation.

The Collegian received two letters from members of the Judicial Board following the editorial. These letters charged that the editorial was inaccurate and impulsive. One of them stated that the Editorial Board had made a serious error in its judgment of Social Probation.

This new ruling aims to participate in all extracurricular activities, including Hill Theater, and, indeed, attendance at Film Society presentations.

It appears that The Collegian was not incorrect, but merely premature.

In the case occasioning this new definition the Board required a penalty combining a one week suspension with Social Probation for the rest of the semester. And yet members of the Board would lead us to believe that they act consistently. To quote from one of the letters we received, "It appears that the Board acted with an acute sense of justice." It appears that the Board is being judicious in its portrayal.

One of the most dramatic occurrences in American politics is the quadrupling in a year of the percentage of the population that would rather have more of it than is the result when the returns are all in, Barry Morris Goldwater's victory was a colossal failure as a presidential candidate.

When he rode roughshod over his opponents to the nomination of the Republican Party last July, it could never have been dreamed a year ago that those who supported his candidacy would find themselves after the election with an office in the Presidency would be based upon vague insinuations, inconsistencies, and distortions interpenetrated amongst political platitudes.

What appeared to be the latent promise behind a Goldwater candidacy was that the ensuing presidential campaign would be one of "...a conflict, between isolationism, the philosophy of the Administration, and the philosophy of the 900 presidents up the street..."

The first fire signal of the Goldwater candidacy is his selection of a vociferous, mud-slinging political "has-been" as his running mate. This administration was responsible and respected president and presidential candidate, and the appointment of an opponent to the nominee will be resented by opponents of the Administration. If Senator Goldwater really does hold the "liberal" option in lieu of, or substituting for a liberal political position of the Administration, it can be said that the nomination is improperly directed to the political exigencies of the moment, but Senator Goldwater promised us more than just this.

Aside from a few vague pronouncements on the nature and origin of our government and what the "Founders" intended, the Goldwater campaign has harked upon morality, delinquency, and the perils to be faced in our urban streets after dark. If these are the real political issues of the highly volatile era in which we live, then we are better off with the good and upright Senator than with low life. But driving more of us — mostly good Republicans — into the streets.

It is possible that the failure of the Goldwater campaign is a case of a surgical conservative movement in this country that took him in as a banner and he is unable to give the selection. Yet he was abundantly white and forceful in the summer of 1964 in his re-minding of the Republican Party.

Candidate Goldwater has only been consistent in his failure to discover the lasting character of his program. He has failed consistently, and he has promised to do more by saying that he will do more for the country. If the nomination is properly directed to the political exigencies of the moment, but Senator Goldwater promised us more than just this.

It is possible that the failure of the Goldwater campaign is because he is the candidate of a surgical conservative movement in this country that took him in as a banner and he is unable to give the selection. He is the candidate of a surgical conservative movement in this country that took him in as a banner and he is unable to give the selection.

Senator Goldwater's error might conceivably be one of more political miscalculation — but that is not his failure. His failure is the obvious way in which he has failed both his party and the electorate. If this is the choice he is interested in, and he certainly is interested in it, then he is no less a political charlatan than he was when Lyndon Johnson was his.

By Richard G. Freeman

While our fellow reporters were writing their diplomatic and statistical angle of the Johnson landslide, this department, determined to present the political election coverage, went to the people.

In our opinion, our appendix directed us to the Dan Emret Grill in Mt. Vernon. And so we drove to the Dan Emret Grill in Mt. Vernon on Tuesday evening to find a spacious dinner room where we could entertain our guests, our guests being the citizens of Mt. Vernon.

We approached the waitress, a respiratory Dixiecrat, who informed us that "in Kentucky they'd be shotin' at each other by tomorrow morning." Six armed and dangerous, we sat down on the long wall of an alcove which was the bar and we got the names of all the candidates.

The appearance, besides being posh-Goldwater, was one of popular despair over the defeat of the Republican Party. While we waited for the results, we were elected to the Republican Club.
The buildings will be financed through donations and a long-term government loan from the Housing Home Finance Agency of the Federal Government.

One member of the Board of Trustees has offered the College a challenge grant of $125,000. If it can raise $175,000 from other sources, William Thomas, Vice-President for Development, reports that he is "encouraged" by the response to the challenge. He feels that the $175,000 will be raised if donations continue at the present rate.

The new buildings will be constructed of stone similar, but not identical, to that used in Old Kenyon, Leonard and Hanna Hall. Identical stone was sought, but the quarry that supplied it is exhausted. They will present a deeply textured facade which will, Mr. King hopes, bring out the beauty of Old Kenyon.

Perhaps the most striking features of the buildings, will be the flexibility of room design and arrangement and an emphasis on privacy and noise control. Unfortunately, according to Mr. Lord, it has proved financially impossible to include any single rooms.

Each dormitory will be subdivided into four living areas which will all open on a central two-story lounge. A living area will include seven rooms and two bath areas. The doors of adjoining rooms will be recessed in a niche to cut down on the noise of slamming doors and lounge activities and to eliminate the darkness of a traditional corridor.

In interior decoration, the buildings will be unlike Gund Hall in that they will have a minimum of built-in furniture. Moveable furniture will increase the difficulty of financing the buildings as it is not covered by the HHFA loan but will allow for a wide variety of room plans.

In the basement will be a spring room, vending area and heating plant.

The architect, Vincent King, was chosen by a committee including members of the Administration and the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees. A total of ten architects was interviewed. Mr. King was chosen on the basis of his extensive experience in the field of dormitory design. He has been responsible for recent buildings at Earlham, Lafayette, Swarthmore and Harvard.

After his selection, Mr. King made several trips to Kenyon in

BUCK Building

Is Redesigned

Due to a Faculty resolution opposing the present design, in its October 31 meeting, the Board of Trustees called for redesigned plans for a commercial building to be constructed on Gaskin Street between East Brooklyn Street and East Scott Lane. The building will contain stores and off-campus living quarters. It should be ready for occupancy by the end of next year.

The building, an investment of endowment funds, will be built by the George S. Rider Company of Cleveland. It will be constructed entirely on College property.

According to present plans, the building will be a low two-story structure with an extra story tucked underneath in the back. In the front, the first floor will contain the Bookstore and grocery store. On the basement level, will be located the Coin Laundry, a barbershop and possibly a beauty parlor.

At one time it was believed that a large department store would open a branch here, but at present this development seems doubtful.

During construction, those businesses now located in the condemned buildings will either relocate or cease operation. The Coin Laundry, operated by a Mt. Vernon resident in co-operation with the College may arrange pick-up and delivery service. The filling station will eventually be moved to the site of the present Bookshop.

The upper story of the commercial building will provide 26 student rooms for those desiring off-campus housing and two efficiency apartments.

Shutout Hiram, 2-0

By Bill Seymour

Kenyon won its second straight contest over Hiram in The Yeomen’s 2-0 victory, achieved on their opponents’ goal. Kenyon has now won two of its last three games, allowing their opponents only four goals.

This week, the Yeomen defeated Hiram, 2-0. Following their previous victory over Oberlin, the Yeomen entered this game with a winning streak. The Yeomen dominated play, using multiple goals and shots to control the game. Despite Hiram’s attempts to score, the Yeomen’s defense held strong.

The Yeomen’s defense was particularly strong in the second period, preventing Hiram from scoring. The Yeomen’s goalie played an outstanding game, making several key saves to keep Hiram from scoring.

The Yeomen’s offense was also effective, with multiple players contributing goals and assists. The Yeomen’s defense and offense worked in tandem to ensure a successful game.

Before a sun-drenched home crowd of 600 alumni, students, and dates, the Kenyon Beasts dropped their fifth game of the season to Oberlin, 26-20.

The Yeomen drew first blood midway through the first half, scoring a goal. Taking advantage of a partially blocked Kenyon punt, Oberlin’s opening quarter Gulf Coast scored a goal, tying the score at 1-1.

In the second half, the Yeomen mounted a 20-yard drive, capped off by a one-yard plunge by Jenkins in the first play of the second quarter. Scoring on the quarterback’s only one of that game when defensive halfback John Rutter intercepted an Oberlin pick six and returning it 40 yards to the Oberlin five-yard line. Three plays later, halfback Doug Rigdon plunged into the end zone for the score. The Yeomen quickly retaliated, however, as they scored two more goals, one in the second quarter and one in the third. Kenyon’s passing attack was bottled up most of the afternoon as quarterback Jeff Jones completed only 20 passes, having three intercepted. Although Oberlin managed only one more first down, Kenyon was able to capitalize on Kenyon mistakes to set up their scores and stop Kenyon drives.

Wilmington Falls Homecoming Victim

Booters Win First

By Bill Seymour

Coach Harrison predicted it. But that the fact that the Wilmington soccer team would carry a 3-1-1 record to Gambier for its October 25th meeting with the Yeomen, Kenyon’s soccer coach, Bob Harrison, optimistically forecast a close game.

And, before an enthusiastic homecoming crowd, the home team went out and fulfilled the prophecy, winning 3-2 in a well fought game.

In their second game since a major victory shocked the Yeomen, the Yeomen continued the improvement they had displayed earlier that season, this time against Gambier. These changes, notably, moving right indoor Rigdon Boykin to fullback, inner Will Scott to left fullback, and halfback Craig Jackson to right wing, were designed to help give the Yeomen a greater scoring punching power (with Boykin starting plays with long downfield kicks, Jackson carrying the ball up the right side of the field, and Scott making back attempts to clear the ball). Apparently the switches also helped the defense, as the Buckeyes were only able to tally two goals in a game in which the Yeomen had many chances, but couldn’t score.

FAIR SKIES on a warm fall day gave the Wilmington game an auspicious beginning, and nothing in the first half detracted from it. The first quarter featured good defensive play and no scoring. But halfway through the second, a trip on the Yeomen’s punt by Gambier’s players, broke their scoring opportunity.

Rigdon Boykin, who handles most of Kenyon’s scoring, kicked off the second half for Kenyon and scored the Yeomen’s first goal on a 20-yard drive against Gambier in the second quarter. The Yeomen continued to dominate, setting up the Yeomen with two goals in the first five minutes of the third quarter.

Senator Takes Up Drinking Regulations to be Changed

For the past month and one-half the Campus Senate has been discussing the problems of beer and liquor consumption at Kenyon College. The problems center around the fact that Rules and Regulations, Section II D, concerning alcoholic beverages, in its generality does not conform to existing state statute 4301.69.

Statute 4301.69 states, "Sale to shall sell intoxicating liquor to a person under the age of twenty-one years or sell beer to a person under the age of eighteen, or buy intoxicating liquor for or furnish it to, a minor unless shown to the contrary.

As The Collegian went to press we learned of the resignation of Prof. Virgil Aldrich, head of Kenyon's Department of Philosophy. Prof. Aldrich hopes to join the faculty of the University of North Carolina next September.

Council Discusses Raid
And the Judicial Board

The bulk of the Student Council's October 28 meeting dealt with an alleged illegal search of a student's off-campus apartment during Homecoming by Roy Rowley, who had been hired by the college as a security officer for that weekend period.

Peter Hewitt asked Dean Edward what the status of off-campus students' rights was, to which Dean Edward replied that they are expected to obey dormitory rules, and are subject to inspection by the security force if such inspection is "in a proper manner." He refused to comment further on the alleged incident.

Michael Burr moved that the proper authorities of the college "reconsider" Roy Rowley. After some haggling over procedure, Council passed 6-4 a motion to refer the matter to a committee and to take it up again at the next meeting.

Council granted a license to the Arnold Air Society, a group of honor students in AFROTC, which conducts various contract programs, to sell food and beverages in the Student Union.

During the conclusion of the session the Oberlin Yeoman, 26-6.

Third Quarter for Kenyon

Dean Ruff, Kenyon's football coach, called the Yeomen's 12-10 victory over their final local opponent, Ken Clug of Gambier, 26-14.

The Yeomen drew first blood midway through the first quarter, taking advantage of a mistake by the Gambier punter, which dripped six yards. Oberlin's quarterback, Glen Garraway, went 61 yards to tally Kenyon's first scores of the TD.

Later in the first period, the Yeomen mounted a 60-yard drive and capped it off by one yard for another Kenyon's first quarter TD.

The Lords struck back for only seven seconds at the gym, with defensive backfield John Rutter intercepted an Oberlin pass, ran it back 48 yards to the Yeomen's five-yard line. Three plays later, halfback Doug Gund scored on a 3-yard run.
