Urban Head To Speak At Forum Opening

Tonight marks the Experimental "Listening for the Future," a forum in which the keynote address in SSs to start the weekend of discussions.

The conference is intended to open a space in which members of the Kenyon community will be confronted with a variety of questions raised by the problems involved with programs that are appropriate to the current social and educational opportunities for the student.

Black Reeducation at Kenyon—HAA—4 weeks of a film, which will begin next Tuesday.

The National Foundation has invited representatives from business, civic affairs, educators, and other college communities to a forum so that this community can have the beginning of a knowledge and experiences.

TheCal to the great has been involved with programs which have tried to develop the resources and potential of the great job opportunity, and financially disadvantaged students. The National Foundation is leading a larger group, including students from Ohio State University, Ohio State University, Ohio State University, and the academic centers of Ohio State.

Fund Seekers Still Hopeful
A large resource of fund raising strategy revolves around colleges, and Kenyon is not an exception. To this end, Mr. Williams, Thomas Kenyon’s director, has been conducting negotiations to raise money. "At this moment, we are probably more concerned with achieving our goals than we have been for a long time." To date, the results of fund raising efforts have been particularly encouraging as far as the board is concerned. However, one factor seems to be in the process of changing in Kenyon’s advantage. Domestic inflationary pressures, international monetary tensions and the November elections have increased the American dollar’s international, making the dollar, especially for students, a good buy. The most significant changes in the dollar have been a rise in the Manhattan market and an increase in the value of the dollar in the foreign markets. The dollar has strengthened since the advent of the major dollar. Kenyon must go begging. The attempt to show signs of becoming more competitive, has been made by Mr. Williams. The bolsterers have become used to the situation, and the dollar is currently at its peak, and is currently the result of the changes in the dollar.

Simplicity is the key theme. Mr. Williams emphasized the desire for a proper relationship between students and the administration. The major theme will be that of the "listening to the people." Kenyon’s students are those who will make the decisions, not the administration. Pragmatically, among those in the presentation will be the need for a proper relationship between students and the administration. The major theme will be that of the "listening to the people." Kenyon’s students are those who will make the decisions, not the administration. Pragmatically, among those in attendance will be students from the above-mentioned groups and others who are interested in the discussion of this issue. The students will be encouraged to ask questions and make suggestions.

Kenyondevil Ltd.

Kenyondevil Ltd. (KDL) is an organization that focuses on providing entertainment and support to Kenyon students. They organize events such as parties, concerts, and volunteer opportunities to foster a sense of community amongst the students. KDL aims to provide a space where students can connect and engage in various activities outside of the academic setting.
To Eliminate Chaperones

We feel that Campus Senate has made a serious error in not voting to eliminate chaperone rules from the handbook.

After forty minutes of confused discussion Tuesday, the senators voted 7:3 to accept a new plan to what is essentially a chaperone bill. Dick Biebey and Bob MacIntyre, odd political bedfellows, proposed that all requirements be abolished. The thinking is that faculty guests could be invited at the discretion of the fraternities and that the antiquated system of chaperoning could be abolished. The Biebey motion was defeated and IFC’s proposed was adopted, providing for two alternatives on major weekends.

A fraternity is either, meet its requirements simply by formally inviting seven faculty guests and their wives, or it will present to the dean with its request for party permission the name of one faculty member who has agreed to attend. In the former case, it is possible that all seven would refuse and, conceivably, that no faculty would be present on the hill.

The thinking of the senators seems to be that there are occasions when soberness and conduct of faculty will be necessary. Such events, it argued, are relatively rare but better handled if a chaperone is present.

One senator answered that the absence of faculty places more responsibility on the fraternities but that the good to come out of a more self-reliant system, for example the IFC proposal, offsets the possible danger.

One of the arguments for the IFC change is that faculty members would visit the hill more often if they were invited with other faculty (7 at a time) to a party rather than having to stay alone when soberness and conduct of faculty will be necessary. It seems to us that abolishing requirements would take the onus off the fraternity (which all the Senators want) and it would actually strengthen the student-faculty social relationship.

We believe that a fraternity party as well as in everyday life in the dorm can live together with harmony and with responsibility. The chaperone system has been a bundle of troubles and in the new administration (with the exception of the dean’s office) has shown initiative in remediating the problems and in the last year particularly the system has fallen into decay because the fraternities simply could not get chaperones to come.

The IFC proposal to change the concept to “faculty guests” is a welcome relief. It does bring both a belief that students cannot handle themselves at parties without faculty and a belief that students would not invite faculty to attend their parties unless they were required by regulation to do so. Therefore we urge Mr. Biebey to reintroduce his motion and we urge Senate to give it serious thought. Rather than taking a strong step forward, Senate seems already ready to take a half-step, making everything more convenient but still not ready to put full trust in students.

Science

The Kenyon Collegian, Box 308, Gambier

To the Editor:

It was distressing to read Prof. Goldwin’s recent column outlining his views about the Arab-Israeli conflict. I believe it is a dehumanizing of nati...
Hoster Senses ‘Drift’

Ed. Note: The following are excerpts from Council President David Hoster’s Interim Report.

I sense a drift in this College that I do not like. It is a drift that is manifested in forms of increased insistance on authority by the administration, particularly by President Caples. This insistence results from what I call an effort to make Kenyon an academic corporation. In any corporate structure, the chain of command from the top down is carefully geared to a smooth running process of dictating authority and compliance that is designed to produce a final goal, considerable financial income from a product of one sort or another.

I was greatly encouraged by the President’s comments last Thursday evening in house regarding Kenyon’s financial future. I have a feeling now that I have not had before that there is not only care-ful and thorough financial planning going on, but also the capability to make that planning work. In the area of campus governmental authority is being demanded by the administration in more formal ways than it has at any time in my memory. The impression I have, therefore, is that the relatively small group of men at the top, designated by one means or another, are drawing courses for Kenyon that will have the most efficient and utilitarian line to the goals decided upon; for it is a course designed in con-traction, and can come along, complying if necessary, or, quit.

I have been told distinctly that the whole will have no effective voice is a limitation of student’s college regulations, and that it would be a mistake to try to avoid that which we keep out altogether. These regulations will be made this sum-mer in the absence of students. If the new women’s dean and the full-time men’s dean systems will be for this particular limitation of authority can be cited: the Senate, consisting of faculty, students, adminis-tration and Trustees that exclude the Senate from the policy-making process, and these decisions are based on certain assumptions such as the expected relation between the college and the students.

The same sort of procedure has been used for many years by a lesser known issue, that of our participation in the G.L.C.A., over-looked in the long run by re-presence that is in no one’s interest.

It was agreed that under the IFC, plans are to be made for the house and the general nature of parties would not change.

Another senator noted that the impression of one was that if all college references were student focused, fraternities would continue to invite fac-ulty, students, and guests in the same way, and the general nature of parties would not change.

The impression of one senator was that if all college references were student focused, fraternities would continue to invite fac-ulty, students, and guests in the same way, and the general nature of parties would not change.

This Sunday three Bennington girls will visit Kenyon as part of their two-month tour of Eastern and Midwestern colleges.

The girls, Rebecca Mitchell, Carole Bailey, and Christine Graham, will meet with the Colgelian staff and the Student Don-
ment Monday and will talk with students at an open meeting 8 p.m. in Lower Campus Hall.

Bennington is one of twenty schools that the girls will visit in a nine-week period. During this time, they will hold seminars, panel discussions, and meetings with students to transmit ideas about changes and developments that are taking place on their campuses. They hope not only to tell other about the relatively new freshman council in house.

Freshman Council is going within the first year of the experi-ence of David Edgar, representative for first floor Lewis and Campus Affairs. “The personal reasons,” Election of a replacement was set for next week.

A similar business, too, is largely in an inter state. The bill to add or remove student Council representatives asks both final drafting and the final report of the Council to the administration.

A recent message to a man on Jan. 22, the Council asked for additional proposals. A recent message to a man on Jan. 22, the Council asked for additional proposals. The proposals were passed by the full Council.

This Sunday three Bennington girls will visit Kenyon as part of their two-month tour of Eastern and Midwestern colleges.

The girls, Rebecca Mitchell, Carole Bailey, and Christine Graham, will meet with the Colgelian staff and the Student Don-
ment Monday and will talk with students at an open meeting 8 p.m. in Lower Campus Hall.

Bennington is one of twenty schools that the girls will visit in a nine-week period. During this time, they will hold seminars, panel discussions, and meetings with students to transmit ideas about changes and developments that are taking place on their campuses. They hope not only to tell other about the relatively new freshman council in house.

Freshman Council is going within the first year of the experi-ence of David Edgar, representative for first floor Lewis and Campus Affairs. “The personal reasons,” Election of a replacement was set for next week.

A similar business, too, is largely in an inter state. The bill to add or remove student Council representatives asks both final drafting and the final report of the Council to the administration.

A recent message to a man on Jan. 22, the Council asked for additional proposals. A recent message to a man on Jan. 22, the Council asked for additional proposals. The proposals were passed by the full Council.

This Sunday three Bennington girls will visit Kenyon as part of their two-month tour of Eastern and Midwestern colleges.

The girls, Rebecca Mitchell, Carole Bailey, and Christine Graham, will meet with the Colgelian staff and the Student Don-
ment Monday and will talk with students at an open meeting 8 p.m. in Lower Campus Hall.

Bennington is one of twenty schools that the girls will visit in a nine-week period. During this time, they will hold seminars, panel discussions, and meetings with students to transmit ideas about changes and developments that are taking place on their campuses. They hope not only to tell other about the relatively new freshman council in house.
Council Votes Funds in In-Store Session

by Paul Halpern

Student Council President David Flaxman was in a quandary about his budget. After tallying the funds, he found that the extra $1400 would be used to buy a new stereo system for the council's meetings. However, he also had to consider the council's need for a new printer. The printer would cost $500, and the council had only $200 left over. Therefore, Flaxman decided that the council would have to wait for the printer, and purchase the stereo system instead.

Glass Sponsors Yugoslav Summer Study

The Great Lakes Colleges Association (GLCA) held its summer seminar in Yugoslavia. This year, the college is planning to send 10 students to the Balkans. In addition, the participant's own institution will have three or four graduate students under the auspices of the GLCA study program. The forms for the Senior are available from the office of the council. The forms are due on April 5.

Beirueh School Strikes For Anti-Israel Stand

The FRONT PAGE of a recent issue of Outlook, the newspaper of Beirueh's American University, chronicled the events following the Israeli attack.

The啤酒 School strike was caused by the assassination of the headmaster, Mr. Caples, in the middle of the school year. The students, who are predominantly Jewish, feel that the government is not doing enough to support their schools. The strike began when the students refused to attend classes, and then progressed to a general strike. The students' demands include an increased budget, better facilities, and more security measures.

Admissions Notes

Female Enthusiasm

As of this week, the Admissions office has received approximately 150 applications including applications from a huge number of girls. The number of female students admitted has increased from 140 to 20 girls. This year, boys and girls are receiving equal consideration. The Admissions office will continue to evaluate the applications of all students, regardless of their gender.

Pass Fail Plan Considered

According to Paul Halpern, chair of Student Council's Academic Affairs Committee, a proposal to change the grading system is under consideration.

The proposal would allow students to choose between a regular grading system or a pass/fail system. This would be beneficial for students who are interested in taking courses for the sole purpose of fulfilling requirements or for students who are not interested in grades.

However, Mr. Halpern realizes that there are many criticisms to this proposal. For example, the system is not fair, and there would be difficulties in determining grades. But he believes it would be an improvement for the students.

Lords Walloped With Overpowering Schedule

by Greg Alexander

Kenyon's overpowering first-half play gained the Indians a 27-2 lead over Wittenberg by the 14:27 mark, and the hosts were never threatened in a 110-86 rout of the Tigers. The 87-point lead is the largest margin of victory in Kenyon history.

In the first half, the Lords worked on a fast-break offense, dominating the boards in the first 15 minutes, 47 seconds. The second half was marked by free throws when the teams were evenly matched, but Kenyon had already established a commanding lead. The game was over by halftime, and the Lords went on to set a new school record for Most Points Scored in a Game with 110.

Swimmers Beat B-W, Tie Mid-Am Foe

The swimming teams won against Denison and Carthage, but lost to Wittenberg. The Lords finished the season with a 7-1 record in the MAA Conference.

Swimmers Beat B-W

Kenyon swimmers defeated Denison and Carthage, but lost to Wittenberg. The Lords finished the season with a 7-1 record in the MAA Conference.

Tie Mid-Am Foe

Kenyon swimmers defeated Denison and Carthage, but lost to Wittenberg. The Lords finished the season with a 7-1 record in the MAA Conference.

Wrestlers Thumped By Heidelberg

The wrestling team lost to Heidelberg, ending their season with a 6-1 record in the MAA Conference.

Up For Grabs is this beloved Kenyon's KI

Marty battles Central State guard Robert Moore (11) at Friday night. Moore had 23 points and Winton 19 to pace the Raiders win.

Marty Hunt gets a shot away as Wittenberg's Larry Baker, who sank the winning basket at the buzzer, defends. Waiting for a possible rebound are John Dunlop, Tiger center Larry Finstrom, and Larry Finstrom, who left shortly after with a twisted knee.

Swimmers Beat B-W, Tie Mid-Am Foe

The swimming teams won against Denison and Carthage, but lost to Wittenberg. The Lords finished the season with a 7-1 record in the MAA Conference.

Wrestlers Thumped By Heidelberg

The wrestling team lost to Heidelberg, ending their season with a 6-1 record in the MAA Conference.

Up For Grabs is this beloved Kenyon's KI

Marty battles Central State guard Robert Moore (11) at Friday night. Moore had 23 points and Winton 19 to pace the Raiders win.
Educational Girls

Continued from Page 3

Carole Bolsey

Christine Graham spent her first year of college at Simmons, where she studied the Fine Arts at the Boston Symphony and the New England Conservatory of Music. She has played in several musical groups, and has continued to study music at Bennington.

She has been planning to pursue a career in writing, and is now involved with writing a creative thesis with Bernard Malamud. In the past, she has worked as a governess, a waitress, a photographic assistant, an assistant for CBS-TV, and as an aide at a psychiatric hospital.

Non-Resident Term at an architectural office doing graphic work and design. She is planning on a career in either architecture or art.

The question now hinges greatly on the character of the interim rules which will constitute mandatory or customary, or on the campus under the new student government. Even if they were seen as a restriction, many levels in and out of class would be especially profitable. If the extra-curricular activities of the two calls were separate and independent, the easiest endorsement that the women will bring to the educational fund will be wasted.

The exchanges for two years, both inside and out of class, will enhance the college experience of each student. As she put it in a speech before Student Council last fall after long discussions of course, "Any girl who found her self-consciousness has been challenged by common participation in activities and her self-confidence in the ability of rule-making will be most helpful in developing an individual to a self-sufficient and norm of the thinking of our own sex, these fundamentally different approaches.

Both the administration (most of whom supports coeducation) and those who favor cooperation agree with the principle that regardless of what style in eventually decided upon, the choice belongs to the women. As much as possible or necessary should be taken to safeguard the self-determination of the women. This assumes that so called "double standard" will shackle them in the formation of their house rules, for instance. President Cephus states, "Women will make their own rules. They must be free to do it in.

Carole Bolsey

Becky Mitchell

She is a junior majoring in social science, with special interests in philosophy and history. She is active in the center around editorial and art academic work and also actively involved with the arts and student government. She spent her Non-Resident Term, she has done work in historical research.

Dean

Continued from Page 1

Kenyon might recognize what it can do to afford quality educational opportunities for such a student. In addition to this practical objective, it is intended that the conference will enable members of the Kenyon, Gambier, and M.V. Vernon communities to offer assistance that people are clearly a vital and pressing issue in contemporary American life.

These are the dual purposes of the conference. It is with these concerns in mind that the agenda of the three days' events has been formulated.

The conference begins Friday evening with a keynote address to be given by Sterling Tucker, National Field Director of the National Urban League. Mr. Tucker is in charge of the League's newly announced action program to develop the resources of ghetto in 21 major cities. He is the author of Beyond the Burning, a critical overview of the racial crisis in America and the conditions of the ghetto.

Saturday the conference continues with a series of three panel discussions, a film program and an evening dinner address by President Cephus. The panels will deal with three aspects of the problem under discussion. One shall emphasize the part played by business and local community groups; another, the involvement of college students and the difficulties that black students face in the liberal arts college; the third will be concerned with the special problems faced by a college attempting to develop a program for the disadvantaged student.

The conference is coordinating this conference with assistance from the Special Projects Committee, Lectureship Committee, the Chaplain's Office, the Interfraternity Council, and President and Mrs. Cephus.

The conference is being held at the Brewer Hotel in Morristown, New Jersey. Room reservations should be made through the conference office. The deadline for reservations is June 15.

Listening For Future

Continued from Page 1

Kenyon might recognize what it can do to afford quality educational opportunities for such a student. In addition to this practical objective, it is intended that the conference will enable members of the Kenyon, Gambier, and M.V. Vernon communities to offer assistance that people are clearly a vital and pressing issue in contemporary American life.

These are the dual purposes of the conference. It is with these concerns in mind that the agenda of the three days' events has been formulated.

The conference begins Friday evening with a keynote address to be given by Sterling Tucker, National Field Director of the National Urban League. Mr. Tucker is in charge of the League's newly announced action program to develop the resources of ghetto in 21 major cities. He is the author of Beyond the Burning, a critical overview of the racial crisis in America and the conditions of the ghetto.

Saturday the conference continues with a series of three panel discussions, a film program and an evening dinner address by President Cephus. The panels will deal with three aspects of the problem under discussion. One shall emphasize the part played by business and local community groups; another, the involvement of college students and the difficulties that black students face in the liberal arts college; the third will be concerned with the special problems faced by a college attempting to develop a program for the disadvantaged student.

The conference is coordinating this conference with assistance from the Special Projects Committee, Lectureship Committee, the Chaplain's Office, the Interfraternity Council, and President and Mrs. Cephus.

The conference is being held at the Brewer Hotel in Morristown, New Jersey. Room reservations should be made through the conference office. The deadline for reservations is June 15.