Racial Violence In U.S.
Sociologist To Speak Tonight

A leading student of the sociology of racial violence in this country, Allen D. Grimshaw, will present public lecture tonight in Room Hall at 8:30 p.m.

Grimshaw, a consultant to the Federal Commission on Civil Disorders (The Cargo Report), is a professor of sociology at Indiana University.

He received degrees in sociology and anthropology from the University of Missouri and a Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Pennsylvania in 1958. His dissertation, "A Study in Social Violence: Urban Race Riots in the United States," proved to be a prophetic report on the racial violence which plagued America in the sixties.

Grimshaw's contributions to the study of RACIAL VIOLENCE IN THE UNITED STATES, attempts to place current events in the same historical context and also provides successive analysis of its political, psychological, and political causes and implications of racial conflict.

A scholar with many interests, Grimshaw's current projects and interests include the impact of a natural disaster on the social organization of an Indian city (the Poona-Elshaghajt report of 1961), comparative bureaucracy; theories of social organization, and the study of the conflict theorists; language and social research.

Stud. Co. Investigates Towel Service Takeover

By John Desmond

Last Sunday, Student Council chairman Mr. Terry Crusie of the Kenya School Student Student Labor reported that the Act Administration's decision to eliminate the student linen. Crusie traces this story to the action was arbitrary, lacked substantive facts, and depersonalized the system of student fraternities at Kenyon.

Council unanimously voted to support the proposed student Crusie and requested that he, Mr. Lord, Vice-Preside for Finance, explain the Administration's position at the next Council meeting, March 3.

According to the Finance Committee's report, Kenyon must bear approximately $50,000 dollars this fiscal year. Money from the knowl

Sectonal Autonomy Plan Wins Final Approval

The Dormitory Life Committee's proposed for Sectional Autonomy was cleared for Senate Wednesday and now goes to President. Approval of Senate still is uncertain.

A number of new regulations besides the elimination of the College's Senior Fraternity, the Gomcrx, will be attempted at next week's meeting.

In other business, Senate received a report from the Social Facilites Committee recommending the establishment of a Board of Directors for Colburn Hall. The move recommending that the President appoint a board consisting of three senior classmen, two freshmen, one women member, and Mr. Loomis was asked. Senate requested the Social Facilities Committee to reconsider the proposal in light of several criticisms raised by the Senate. Several Senate members considered the proposed board too large for meaningful operation. The Committee was criticized for the insubstantial fact and dynamized the future of student fraternities at Kenyon. Council unanimously voted to support the proposed student Crusie and requested that he, Mr. Lord, Vice-President for Finance, explain the Administration's position at the next Council meeting, March 3.

Film Society Showdown: 'High Noon'

by Bob Strong

It is probably significant that the first American film presented at THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY, was a western. No other cinema subject (with the possible exception of one) has maintained the consistent popularity and sustained the endless repetition as has the American west. This weekend the Film Society will show two features and three shorts that represent the various approaches of the Westerners.

THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY lasts only 16 minutes, but it represents one of the most important films made this year. GARY COOPER, in his academy award winning role as the Marshall in HIGH NOON. The film will be shown Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Room Hall.

Housing Group Urges End To Small Leonard Doubles

by Bill Bechel

Last Sunday, the newly formed ad hoc Housing Committee passed a recommendation to change 48 small double rooms in Leonard Hall into singles.

The committee commissioned three weeks ago to examine the condition of campus housing for next year, will make a full report to Senate March 2.

Their proposal, if enacted, would reduce the average occupancy of Leonard from 142 to 94. This year 118 students lodged, Leonard, but with the greater number of students moving to the Hill next year, current plans call for full occupancy of Leonard next year.

The College, however, face legal difficulties in enacting such a proposal. In 1961 the College took out a $650,000 loan from the Federal Government for renovation of Leonard and Barns, the arms of which required housing 156 students in Leonard, this figure was later reduced to 14 when the triges were reversed to doubles, but the terms of the loan appear to restrict any further reduction.

The committee's motion reflects their feeling that the decision to house 156 men in Leonard was a severe mistake and urge the College to seek any means for circumventing the legal restrictions.

The Committee also considered housing alternatives to make up for the loss of 66 beds in Leonard. Although the total reduction probably cannot be offset immediately, it was proposed that 25 students be housed on the third floor Wester.

A certain amount of renovation is needed, such as installation of bathroom facilities and fire doors, and it is also doubtful whether sufficient money can be found to enable the College to operate on an austere budget. Four units in the Wesley Hall dormitory may be used and possibly available.

Committee members have also recommended the establishment of a permanent Housing Committee to consider the problems which will result as the population on the Hill grows. John Loomis has stated that they oppose construction of any dormitories for the men's college. They recommend that other types of student housing, such as motel-type apartment be given considering the overcrowding increases.

Yesterday the Housing Committee considered priorities in room assignmement for off campus housing. Senior independent honor students will receive first preference, followed by junior honor fraternity members. Patt Hall will remain an independent dormitory, with honor students receiving first preference. The committee also decided that if any buildings were converted, a levy will be used in determining admittance.
Faculty Reorganization

Last spring steps were taken to implement the recommendations of the Committee on Faculty Organization (the Funkheimer Report). The Funkheimer reforms include creation of many new faculty committees—ranging from the Faculty Council Committee on Committees to the Educational Policy and Resource Allocation Board. The aims of reorganization were to increase the faculty voice in policy decisions, to make faculty government more efficient and democratic, and to provide a more structured faculty organization to meet the demands of a growing college community.

For the most part, however, it seems that faculty reorganization has aggravated the problems it sought to solve. The faculty has less power than they wanted and less power than they formerly had. Power is now widely diffused among committee chairmen and the machinery of the committee system. At one time, the faculty could influence administrators and others in decision making positions. Now everyone participates, but in an unwieldy and cumbersome bureaucracy. This was illustrated in the recent comprehensive confusion over comprehensive examination reforms.

The reorganization of faculty government created many essentially unnecessary committees and these committees, in turn, have created a function and reason for their existence. Besides adding to the general confusion surrounding campus government at Kenyon, the proliferation of committees wastes a great deal of valuable faculty time and ultimately affects the quality of teaching. The Provost's committee responsibilities (too numerous to be tabulated) may soon prevent him from teaching any courses. All professors are now expected to devote considerable time to policies and committee work while sacrificing their basic duties as scholars and teachers.

Problems inherent in the reorganization of the faculty are characteristic of problems in governing the College generally. Kenyon has a competent professional staff of administrators capable of making sound decisions. There are legitimate and obvious reasons for granting faculty and students a voice in the decision making process, but this good idea can be taken too far. The complexity of campus government as a whole reflects a desire to involve everyone at every level of the policy and decision making process. The continual insistence on the multiple decision making body (committee, board, commission, legislature, or what have you) has undermined the efficiency and effectiveness of the College. Kenyon government is bureaucratic and boring.

The much sought meaningful dialogue seems to have produced little besides meaningless monologues and fruitless discussions. Moreover, the committee explosion has caused some of us, faculty and students alike, to forget that this college is a community of scholars—not a political convention.

THE WIT AND WISDOM of Zoe was enjoyed by Stephen Holmier as well as Linda Gross in the production of THE INNER CIRCLE last weekend.

Wit And Originality, Mark 'Inner Circle'

BY BENDRA SMALLAY

THE INNER CIRCLE, Eugene Scribe's satirical satire on the games people play, was presented last week by Stephen Harmon, as part of his requirement for a Drama Major. According to the program, it was the first American presentation of this play, which Hambrecht attractively translated from the French, and it went very well. Perhaps some judicious cutting would have enhanced the production, for it ran too long, or maybe the pacing should have been quicker because it took nearly the whole first act for the play to get going. Once it did, however, it moved briskly and happily through the fortunes and misfortunes of Madame de Menourette's Inner Circle of friends. At first the play seemed to present a more ambiguously intimate, but this gave way to something like drawing room farce as the production maintained an air of nonchalance and never dropped down into chaos madness.

The cast was practically perfect, and the performances were well chosen. Shelley Harmon was radiant as the wild Zoe, who single-handedly walloped the foggy out of the Inner Circle. Her witty wit and wisdom seemed to dominate the stage whenever she was present, and she dominated the next. Shelley breakfasted, but a keen sense of timing. Helene Hiefer was delightful as an out of everybody else's sails as the threatening Casino, was haphazardly overbearing, overdrinking, and overwhelmingly funny. She too disdained the prescribed, if not published, professionalism which was well enforced throughout the production the might have been easier to hate if she didn't look so beautiful, but consequently came off as the magnificent beast of the piece.

Aftermath And Analysis

The Chicago Seven Trial

BY LARRY RAY

The overwhelming truth that emerged from the trial was that the Chicago Seven Trial was an amazing and meaningful political event. The defendants,� Larry Seeman, were accused of protesting at the Chicago Convention of 1968. The trial was held in the summer of 1969, and the defendants were sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to five years.

The trial was a turning point in the history of the civil rights movement, and it marked the beginning of the end of the Vietnam War. It also marked the beginning of the end of the civil rights movement, and it marked the beginning of the end of the Cold War. Problems In Development Where Do We Go From Here?

by Paula Siegel and Sam Barone

Perhaps if the girls had had a better idea of what was expected of them, their location was such that they could have made it to a better first attempt at effecting it. When all was said and done, the only planners with a real deal for coordinating everything were the architects. They, as promised, delivered up to us a separate campus, distinct in every way from Kenyon Gothic. There are many pitfalls and complex definitions and justifications for a committee, but when it comes to applying the theories, little has been done or even attempted.

When all had been said and done, the only planners with a real feel for coordination education were the architects.

by Doris Crozier
Dean, The Coordinate College

Looking back on the time which has elapsed since the opening of the Coordinate College in September I feel a sense of the quick passage of time and the futility of trying to create an enterprise after so few months.

Many of my greatest concerns—such as my idea of the underlying support of the President, the Provost, and all of the administrative staff—of the understanding acceptance with which the faculty welcomed—Ixion—the continues and courteous help from many of the Kenyon men—above all, the heartwarming discovery that the Coordinate College is a great group of women. Their academic performance has given their approval, and their uncomplaining acceptance of the many, many inconveniences before they moved into the dormitory and afterward have proven their adaptability.

If we are to define the word "College" we must remind ourselves that we really have, as yet, only a little more than one fourth of our women. The years in which we have not reached what we planned. We have the ulterior worries of being freshmen because they had always been considered. As we moved to conduct ourselves in a manner different than most freshmen do. Our upperclasswomen have had the unique task of trying to advise freshmen in an environment which is unfamiliar to them as to the freshmen. The character of the Coordinate College will develop to a great extent as the whole are added. We are seeking to avoid the same old spent and faint beginnings of what we will become.

My impression is that the women of the Coordinate College are as proud and happy to be a part of the Kenyon College community as I am—and that is proud and happy indeed.

Crozier Discusses Coordinate College Five Months Later

The Coordinate College has turned out to be a little more than a tucked on addition to Kenyon, projecting very little of a separate identity.

The Coordinate College is a community of women such as the women’s minor, the recent college of a few women’s colleges, or the continuation of a woman’s swim team are all encouraging beginnings in this direction. But even the recent student government are incomparable in this instance. Whatever the methods, the coordination of the separate college is the distinctive feminine character of the Coordinate College—or standard the idea of the Coordinate College simply a logical addition to the college.

The administration of the women’s colleges is based and, accordingly, the circulation of the Coordinate college is the real story of the Coordinate college. The spirit seems to Have many of maintaining an innovative and experimental attitude. As of yet, we haven’t been anything more different even often talked about.

To very few of the best splits, we urge more positive leadership in organizing social and extracurricular activities.

Even now, there is no place for a woman to take a problem; no one she can really trust.

Epstein Discusses His Poetry And ‘Appearances’

by Lyn Utka

APPEARANCES, a book of poems by Brandon Markowicz, has been published by the Pot Hanger Press in an edition of 300 copies. Approximately 236 copies are on sale to the public at $1.50. Copies may be purchased from the Pot Hanger Pressroom in the basement of Prater Hall. In the following interview, Epstein discusses the book and his poetry.

Q. Why is this book entitled APPEARANCES?

EPISTEN: The title is from a passage in Fred X. of Plato’s EPISTEM. Plato turns to Gnomon and says—"now we must examine these facts and find out if they think what they have produced are real and true things, for their poems are appearances only." So far, in my poetry, I feel that I haven’t given past the appearances of things. Ultimately, I hope I can improve on that, producing poems that are perhaps not two removes from reality instead of three.

Q. Is the book arranged?

EPISTEN: In roughly reverse chronological order, I did this because it seemed likely more that the better poems would open up the book, and that a reader would be less apt to throw up his hands after the first few pages. The first section includes poems written in the past year. There is some subtle theme that only, most of the themes are rather elemental. The poems of the second section describe discoveries I was making two years ago concerning language and poetry itself. The last section of the poems are early poems in a different style for the most part.

Q. Why is the second section of poetry called “Istared”?

EPISTEN: Istared is a mythological character who was strapped to a wheel and sent into a sentence to round round and round for eternity. At the time I was writing these poems, many of my discoveries made me feel that that attempt at expression through words was destined for the same circular frustration.

Q. What language discovered did you make in the Istared poems?

EPISTEN: I was learning the limitations of the notebook in the library of the Mt. Vernon Memorial Building, I stared at the page peeling off the wall and thought of it. The Istared Monument Thunford Herbert, the book that had brought it up at the famous Carnegie Hall concert in 1948. The Istared Hero, the headband that had started with Buddy Rich. Jimmy Giuffre, Nat Adderley, Miles Davis, and Neil Hefti. The leader who is by now both the old and the new in Mount Vernon. Kent County, The Memorial Building. Then there was Istared in the idea of the land itself. My friends’ Weld hero was voiceless, too bad, even if it was the best of any of Washington’s Birthday, 1970, it was gathering and off-key (but only my mother, and only her one number, "Laura," and that was for old times sake). When the last section opened up to "Four Brothers," there was a call Niall and people unnamed plched by combining jazz with rock and soul, or what he calls "the music of the street." I think where all music is going.

I just feel honestly that we have come further than anyone else in this day and age, and that is not an easy path. But we can do it musically without making concessions of any kind. It’s probably right, the Herbs’ "Light My Fire," the Doors, was, for me, the most exciting and interesting thing that happened from any other self-acclaimed Rock group. Our "Blacks" is like a "sentimental mood." The blues- swinging new release by the Rev. "Ballad" and "Caldas" are fresh and unique."

The employees had ended up in a half-baked state of affairs. It isn’t built for the fact that Woody Herman is doing something and doing it well. He played all sorts of songs by Ray Noble’s "The Very Thought Of You," "Mezz Mezzrow’s "My Charlie Amour," and somehow, everybody had a good time.

Impressions Of Woody Herman

by Murray L. Honick

when Woody Herman and his band were at the Music Hall, the audience was made up of mostly girls. The band seemed to be enjoying itself, and the audience was rowdy.

The band played a set that lasted for about an hour and a half. The audience was very enthusiastic, and many people danced in the aisles. The band played a variety of songs, including a few that were quite popular among the students.

Overall, the performance was a great success, and the students enjoyed themselves thoroughly.
Swimmers Prepare For OAC Meet By Trouncing Two Foes

by Art Underwood

Kenyon's swimmers were able to come up with two wins this past week over O.U.C. (Oklahoma University) with the help of Kenyon's close calling for the Conference Meet. On Saturday, the Lords defeated Ohio Wesleyan 16-35 at the Shafter Pool. In the Ohio meet, Kenyon was first in eight out of twelve events. First place points were recorded by the 400 yard relay team of Lucas, Koller, Bell, and Wallace, by Bill Howard in the 100 yard freestyle, by Pete Covacs in the 200 yard freestyle, and by Chip Duvall in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events. Other firsts were taken by Bill Koller in the 200 yard Individual Medley, by Norm Schmidt in the 500 yard freestyle, and by Pete Holme in the diving. In addition, Kenyon's exhibition (scoring) 100 yard freestyle relay team not only a much better time than Oberlin's first-place team, and Bill Koller set a new Oberlin pool record swimming exhibition in the 200 yard breaststroke.

Against Ohio Wesleyan, the Lords again proved their might by winning all but two events. In the second half of the meet, the teams officialistically entered only one man in each event, thereby giving the Bishops points that Kenyon didn’t need. First-place finishers in this meet were Don Lucas, Tom Welteich, Dick Koller, and Bill Koller, winning the 400 yard medley relay. Norm Schmidt in the 100 yard freestyle, John Kipreths in the 50 yard freestyle, and Bill Wallace in the 200 yard Individual Medley. Pete Holme took the diving, Keith Bell the 200 yard butterfly, Bill Howard the 500 yard freestyle, and Tom Welteich the 20 yard breaststroke.

Kenyon's next meet is with Akron and Denison at Denison this Saturday. It is scheduled to be ready to take on the major threat to the Lords' 17th straight Conference crown, and it looks like a preview of the Conference Championships to be held on March 6-7, also at Denison.

Ref's Eye-View

Are the Kenyon basketball crowds bad? Not at all, says Joe Romano, Ohio Conference Referee. Mr. Romano has been an official for some twenty years, and he was a ref at two Kenyon games this year. Both times he felt that the crowd control and the attitudes of the coaches and players was perfect. In reference to some noisy remarks that are hurled against himself during the course of a game, Mr. Romano states that he doesn’t even hear them. Being an official is such a difficult job that it requires full-time concentration on the game, and not the fans’ opinion of it.

Debate Splits At Columbia

The Kenyon Debate earned a three- record in a National tournament at Columbia University last weekend. Two freshmen, Tom Green and Dave Laidfield, represented Kenyon in the fifty-eight school field. They scored victories over Penn State, Howard University, and Tennessee Tech.

This was the first tournament for the Debate Society since Christmas vacation. At that time Hugh McElrath and Ed Johnson participated in two national tournaments in California.

Members of the Council also enthusiastically received an idea for an informal discussion group to consider the role of women. It was proposed that such a program continue with an examination of traditional literature. Other topics which could be included in such a program are anthropology, sociology, and politics.

Tourney Tickets

Tickets for Friday's Basketball contest between Kenyon and the World Women are available at the Fieldhouse. The cost is $1.50, a saving of 50 cents off the door price. The game will be played at 8:00 p.m. at Baldwin Wallace College which is located in Berea, about a two-hour drive north on routes 13 and 71. Should we lose Friday, we would play Saturday night at 8:30 for the Northern Division Championship. Tickets would be on sale from 8:00 Saturday morning on, at the Fieldhouse.

Tourament Next For Rinka-Led Lords
Hiram Fifth Victim In Row
Rinka Honored In Ceremony

by John Ryerson

There was something different on Saturday in the usual Kenyon basketball uproot. For it was John Rinka's last appearance of his fabulous career at home. The wild crowd went crazy for John, and he responded magnificently with 92 points on a fantastic 20 for 20 from the free throw line. Hundreds of people were turned away from the game, as the stands were full nearly two hours before game time. It seemed only an afterthought that the Hiram Terriers were in town for a game. The Lords won, 118-110, but Rinka was the focus of all the attention. The OAC tourney looms ahead.

The culmination occurred in the ceremony after the game honoring John. In that ceremony it was revealed that the NCAA had requested that John's road uniform and the ball used in his last game be conserved in their Hall of Fame. John's home uniform was retired by Coach Bob Braumann, who read the letter from the NCAA to the crowd. The uniform will be displayed in the trophy case in the Fieldhouse.

Other awards presented Rinka were a plaque from the Chamber of Commerce of New Lexington, and a award from little Kevin Walsh (who probably was the most nervous of all), and a commemorative plaque from Roger Hispanics, in behalf of the senior class, which had established the John A. Rinka Sportsmanship Award, which will be first awarded in 1970. Athletic Director Phillip Morse, suggested the only possible ending—win the championship for Kenyon's assumption but terrible cheerleaders.

Hiram Beaten by 6
The cheerers inspired on for John Rinka far longer than they did for the performance of the Lords against Hiram. The Terriers were dead last in the OAC, but they came into Gambier with speed on their mind. The outcome of the contest was a foregone conclusion at the end of the first half, but Hiram penetrated the Lord defense enough in the second stanza to make the score look respectable. The Terriers became the fifth straight victim for the Lords, who now hold a 12-10 mark (9-2 OAC). As is the OAC custom, the Lords opened slowly, and appeared tight. Hiram concentrated their defense at the start on Rinka, but it did little good after some five minutes into the game when the Lord shooting improved substantially. All five of the Kenya starters scored in a four minute stretch which powered the Lords ahead, 26-21. After a timeout, another stroke to the Lords (11-2 in three minutes) put the Lords 16 points up.

The attention than shifted to John Rinka in a starring performance. Coach Braumann made a substitution the crowd expected him to leave John in, so that he might score a large amount of points. For obliged the crowd, and Rinka did not leave until last minute seconds were remaining. Hiram refused to quit, even though their cause was largely ignored in the presence of John Rinka. Though they fell behind by 22 at one point in the second half, their defense, led by Tom Lohb, Larry McColl, and Paul Slouey penetrated the Lord moldings with their defense. They narrowed the gap somewhat, especially since the Lords were substituting freely, in order to give theirRinka a chance to rest. Sealer Tom started was among these Lord subs who saw considerable action on Saturday night. Defense, Larry Radefeld and Phil Can also did fine jobs in sub roles. Freshman Ed Moran, an occasional sub, saw his great deal of action in win was a “preview” of next year to some extent.

In the scoring department for the Lords, Rinka led with 52, and broke the single season mark of 525 free throws made. He now has 225 for the season (of his 115 OAC Conference mark). He also made 59 free throws in a row, putting him within striking distance of his own record. 40. Marty Hie finished with 17. Jim Smith 12, Dave Day 11, Pete Schaefer 8, and Tim Delaney 7. In all, the Lords sank 12 rebounds, his season's high.

Tourney Preview
Now that the regular season is over, the real fun begins in the Ohio Conference. In the Basketball tournament any of the 16 teams in the conference has a chance of winning it all and advancing to the NCAA nationals. The 16 teams are split into two seven-team divisions according to geography. Thus, Kenyon, Wittenberg, Wabash, Otterbein, Hiram, and Mount Union are in the North, while the remaining teams are in the South. The North playoffs will be held at Baldwin-Wallace this Thursday through Saturday, and the South playoffs will be held at Denison on the same dates. Kenyon and Capital received the byes in their respective divisions, since they had the best records. The final game, North champ vs South champ, will be held March 3 (Tuesday) at Baldwin-Wallace.

Injuries Hurt As Wrestlers Fall, 29-11

Lack of men, one factor present in Kenyon's wrestling team season, was further complicated by injuries as the season progressed and the Lords had to forfeit two weight classes and still field four traditional power hiram to 29-11. The Lords came up short in the 138 and 177 classes, but got 5 of those points back when Rick Hasz tied for third place in the 160. The other victors for Kenyon were Doug Vogeler at 125 and Bill Conway in the unlimited category. Vogeler won his match 8-3, and Conway decided his bout 6-2, but that was all the points that the Lords got.

On the negative side, Dave Smull at 118 and Russ Sherman at 167 were picked up. Gary Grub at 138 and Bob Kittigartner at 142 lost by identical 7-1 decisions. Jim Kohl was a 6-3 decision victim at 147.

The last meet of the season was at Friday, home against Wilber.

PETE GALLER, here seen high-jumping against Wooster and Otterbein, has been the rare bright spot for the trackmen as far as this year. He has been a consistent pointmaker for the Lords. Under Coach Donald White, the trackmen get into action again this Saturday against Mussinking and Oberlin at 130 in the Fieldhouse.

'Inner Circle'

The term of the cast are all good and seemed to comprise a joyful inner circle of players themselves. The most disappointing aspect of the play was the scenery. Initially, it was creatively designed, but presentiy, it was wretchedly executed. Shabby and vitiated. It seemed to be suffering from a lack of polish and its dross was provided the realistic atmosphere. It was impossible to decide whether the bar in Act II was designed to be indoor or outdoor. It also lacked the necessary polish to convince the Miss Winnie audience to believe it. Even the same cigarette lighter was stumbled upon momentarily in the third act. The carpeting, on the other hand, were authentic. It seemed, and in a few cases, stunning. The lighting was done most effectively appropriate. It is pleasant to see a display of originality in the off-center, especially when coupled with adequacy, where is it? The color and style of the play was never heard of before. Let us all be grateful for small pleasures.

The recent talk of hiring a woman psychologist is also a sound idea and would be a positive step towards the solution of the problem. We hope a woman psychologist would be appointed as an office in the Commons and perform her role as well. As Chaplain Reitsma and Dr. Shepherd do both for the men.

The founding of the College Coordination at Kenyon was to be some- thing new and innovative-and it still can be. When the women begin to assert a character and identity, in something more than a performance of LITTLE MISS, the College will have accomplished something more valuable than financial solvency, though mere vs. per cent of the student population.

If a successful Festival were ex-pectedly, the sky would be grey. But Ken- yon could be assured that top in- light would be drawn to Gambler, in this case. It is conceivable that Blues per- sonalized the University's Visiting Residence with the Music depart- ment in a manner analogous to the present P.A.C. therefore.

The Elections Committee stressed two particular goals. First, representation for independent students and the election of students-at-large through Student Council. Independent stu- dents must submit petitions bearing the signatures of at least twenty-five unaffiliated students. Candidates for representatives-at-large must have forty student per- sonal signatures.

writing, she had worked more from sound cocclusions. Well, it varied. Sometimes I would be im- pressed by the appearance of a system or a line I had in my head that touched all sorts of subtle relations. But now I'm writing more directly from myself. For fiction, I try to find words for a feeling I have, and images that occur to me in feeling the subject.

As much as possible, I try to see images that seem to grow directly out of the subject. I try to avoid the junk, and then select non- selective, throwing in anything that happens to cross my path while I'm writing.

Q. Can you trace a development in your poetry?

Q. Epstein: Yes. Basically, I've been trying to work toward a more natural language. When I first started writing, like a lot of peo- ple, I had misconceptions about what poetry is. I imagine I still do, but my misconceptions at least, have developed. I was very much in- fluenced at first by writers like Yeats and Thomas Hardy, who really spoke a different language than you and I speak today. I've been trying to write more as I would writing anything else...the stress of one emotion or another.

Q. Do you find a dominant feeling running through your poems?

Q. Epstein: Generally, though the object of my concern might be differ- ent, the feeling is always very similar. It's one of just being not quite all here; I'm confused. The best way of describing it is: that's the dominant emotion, and it is almost always there whenever I'm writing a poem.

Sunday in Sweden

Summer in Sweden
Student International Services, an organisation involved in arranging home stays abroad for college stu- dents, has graciously offered to help one Kenyon student a scholarship to go to Sweden and spend a month free of charge with an Swedish family this summer. Students interested in applying for this scholarship should contact Prof. Hecth, Director of International Education.

Chicago 7

Incapable of maintaining order in the courtroom over which he presided, however, the most significant fact is that Abbie Hoffman and Coopmy threw a monkey wrench into the judi- cial machinery. The seeming crunches were heard throughout the country, by means of jokes, pic- tures, and verbal tirades the Chicago Seven brought rampant confusion in the courtroom. Abbie Hoffman makes no efforts to hide his views. To Coopmy, during the Rolling Stones Concert, Hoffman went backstage, greeted Mick Jaeger and said, "Your gig is sick, man's violence."

In essence, the question is this: Can the American judicial system and foreign policy, American society survive an onslaught from a growing group of idealists, and the many young people whose wisdom, unlike that of past generations, is "screwed to the system."

DESTINY RIDES AGAIN stars Mackenzie Phillips and James Stewart and provides an excellent example of the Hollywood renaissance. More a comedy or romance, DESTINY RIDES AGAIN takes place in the Southwestern desert where the misty-mannered here always beats the bully.

THE HEART OF TEXAS RYAN features the first cowboy who never goes near a cow for fear of scar- ing the ladies. Tom Mix stars complete with white horse and hat, silver-studded saddle, and Sir Gabriel's black hat.

to see films pleasantly is crucial, violating the fine laws in homosexual, I would like to suggest some alter- natives. The NO SMOKE sign should be illuminated; violators should be warned or asked to leave (if needed be, by a security guard or student monitor). The films should occur only after the audience has settled down; since the film is not as well-received, they could take place for personal reasons on the minute to finish them. The elected chair to the lack of the whole must of the audience must be seated, and the number of people permitted in Rose must be limited (as the Athletic Department is already well-connected to spectators at basketball games). The cost of showing the films should include the cost of taking down those proceedings.

If this does not work, I suggest we return to the former admissions policy, charging students at the door.
