3-9-1972

Kenyon Collegian - March 9, 1972

Follow this and additional works at: https://digital.kenyon.edu/collegian

Recommended Citation
https://digital.kenyon.edu/collegian/2356
by Richard Clarke

A large and enthusiastic crowd gathered Wednesday evening in Memorial Hall for the annual Senior-Freshman Swimming Meet. The event, which has become a tradition, was attended by a record number of spectators, and the enthusiasm of the participants was evident throughout the evening.

The meet was divided into three parts: the Senior-Senior race, the Junior-Junior race, and the Senior-Junior race. Each race consisted of a series of individual and relay events.

In the Senior-Senior race, the Senior team once again emerged victorious, winning five of the eight events. The Senior team had a strong performance in the backstroke, with both the 100 yard and 200 yard events being won by Senior swimmers. The Senior team also took first place in the medley relay.

The Junior-Junior race was a close-fought contest, with the Junior team coming out on top with four victories. The Junior team was particularly strong in the breaststroke events, with both the 100 yard and 200 yard events being won by Junior swimmers. The Junior team also took first place in the freestyle relay.

The Senior-Junior race was the most evenly matched, with both teams winning three events. The Senior team took first place in the medley relay and the 400 yard freestyle relay, while the Junior team won the 800 yard freestyle relay and the 400 yard medley relay.

The meet concluded with the presentation of medals to the winning swimmers, and the Senior team was declared the overall winners of the Senior-Junior meet. The Junior team was awarded the runners-up position.

The games were a great success, and the swimmers showed their usual enthusiasm and spirit. The event was a great way to end the season and look forward to next year's meet. The crowd was enthusiastic and the energy was palpable throughout the evening.

- Richard Clarke

---

Critique

The meet was well attended and the enthusiasm of the participants was evident throughout. The races were well matched, with each team winning three out of the eight events. The Senior team had a strong performance in the backstroke events, while the Junior team was particularly strong in the breaststroke events.

The medley relay was a notable highlight of the meet, with both the Senior and Junior teams taking first place. The freestyle relay was also a close-fought contest, with both teams winning.

Overall, the meet was a great success, and the swimmers showed their usual enthusiasm and spirit. The event was a great way to end the season and look forward to next year's meet.
Coords Co-opted in Coup

Ladies Welcome Ladies

by Steve Anderson

At its meeting on February 10th, the Board of Trustees of Kenyon College in Gambier voted that effective July 1, Kenyon will become a coeducational institution. As one paper rather inaccurately but correctly stated, "Kenyon now declares its independence from the male-dominated world of women's higher education."

It is a question, however, of just what Kenyon's new status really means. The decision was made by a majority vote of the Board, with only seven members dissenting. The reason given by the Board was the belief that coeducation is the only way to provide a full and complete education for all students, regardless of sex.

This decision has been hailed by many as a step forward in the fight for equality and has been condemned by others as a step backwards. It is a decision that will undoubtedly have far-reaching consequences for the college and for higher education as a whole.

The decision was made after much deliberation and discussion, and was the result of a careful and thorough examination of the issues involved. The Board of Trustees was convinced that coeducation was the best way to ensure the provision of a high-quality education for all students.

The Board's decision has been met with a mix of reactions from the college community. Some have expressed support for the decision, while others have expressed concern. However, there is a general consensus that the decision is a significant step forward in the fight for equality and justice.

The decision to become a coeducational institution is one that will have far-reaching consequences for the college and for higher education as a whole. It is a decision that will undoubtedly be studied and debated for years to come.

Scribbledeshabille

Several weeks ago the kids in P.A. Hall received a college repair bill for $30.00. The student representative of P.A. thought this was a bit excessive, and in response to his question received a reduction of the charge to $15.00.

It seems somewhat, it was assumed to be a P.A. resident, had gained access to the hall, where he proceeded to jam a car door and break a television set hanging on the wall. The culprit then left the scene, and was later apprehended after police pulled up the string in his getaway. For some strange reason I didn't believe it.

I called Jack Anderson and asked if the boys had anything to do with it (I had heard they had allegedly happened.)

Jack was on the bench of some of his contacts over at J.C., and within an hour he was back to me. At best I can remember, the conversation went something like this:

"On February 7, 1972 a six-man team of professional saboteurs arrived in Gambier. They were the latest in a series of smelly and right organization.

They were dedicated, ruthless, and clean-shaven. Their target, as you may know, was Kenyon College. They planned to disrupt academic activities in the college.

They set up operations on Park Tower. There they scammed the campus for two days with high-powered smoke bombs until they found an arsonist.

"It took the President 10 years to do that."

"Great!"

"Skip it. What were they looking for?"

"Any student, or University, orMouseMove into pop bottles at the entrance to the burning towers stop! Arson. Only problem was that they missed a few of them, and one happened to sail over to P.A."

"What a month, Jose. Missed a direct hit on the target, I would have liked..."

"Well, thanks, Jack. I'll look into it."

Well, Kenyonites. Gambier resident who was taking home movies of the parade held that day, Kenyon was standing in front of the post office, in front of the post office. This picture is a blow-up of frame 103 of the Kenyon film. The bottle is clearly visible.

BERNSTEIN BOTTLE (IN FLIGHT)

There had been some talk at first that the Bernstein film was a fake, pasted together after the fact, however, two factors prove the authenticity of the film. First, Harry's FARMER'S ALMANAC, According to the almanac, the solstices on March 21 and December 21 are on frame 103, exactly in the center of the frame. This is definite daylight Saving. Second, it has been pointed out that there is a tree somewhere in the background of the film. It is directly behind the battery of frames 103 is definitely daylight Saving. Second, it has been pointed out that there is a tree somewhere in the background of the film. It is directly behind the battery of frames 103 is definitely daylight Saving.

The Bernstein bottle was seen at least once in this film. The bottle was seen in a few local stores, and was later found in a nearby park. The bottle was found to be a genuine Bernstein bottle, and is now on display at the Kenyon College Museum.

A Brief Report...

by James Klein

If small posse were interested in the history of the eighteenth century, particularly the climactic year of 1875, it would be of interest to consider the events leading up to the battle of the Alamo. It was a time of great political intrigue and, as a result, many people were involved in the conflict.

The battle of the Alamo was fought on March 6, 1875, in San Antonio, Texas. The Mexican forces were commanded by General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, while the American forces were led by Captain David Crockett. The battle resulted in the deaths of nearly 1,000 American soldiers and 700 Mexican soldiers.

The battle of the Alamo was a turning point in the Mexican-American War, and it is remembered as one of the most significant events in American history. It is a symbol of American pride and perseverance.

The Alamo has become a symbol of American independence and freedom. The battle of the Alamo is remembered as a symbol of the American spirit, and it is a reminder that American soldiers are capable of的伟大.
Fantasy in Gambier Rumpelstiltzkin

by Kerry Pfeiffer

The Port advised these "Country Fans" expect an evening of music, minstrel shows, black ribbon dance and bicycle hops. A children's show also was advertised to begin at 8:45, but did not materialize.

The Rumpelstiltskin fairy tale was chosen for the Gambier Fantasy. The story was one of the more popular of the fairy tales of the Brothers Grimm.

Because of the holiday season, it was decided to open the event with a singing of "Jingle Bells." The song was sung as a medley with other Christmas songs.

The children chanted the orange boxes change from orange in the living room. Nothing is hibber. The log beat out the stories and the boxes from behind Mammy's storming winds as the "Magic." Very tastefully they handle this transparent, NE's Southern Hum Street and kindly carded "Mr. Hines" tramp the kids with their dandies. They're slow and passionate.

In the quite grey behind this group, which opened in Gambier on April 3, is the reporters. When Edgar Cochen passes himself from palace guard a moment, he walks in the back of the screen and picks a name out of the customs box, and changes himself in front of your eyes. Some changes are made, in the middle way, while it is moving, it describes the passage of time.

The children who chant the orange boxes change from orange in the living room. Nothing is hibber. The log beat out the stories and the boxes from behind Mammy's storming winds as the "Magic." Very tastefully they handle this transparent, NE's Southern Hum Street and kindly carded "Mr. Hines" tramp the kids with their dandies. They're slow and passionate.

In the quite grey behind this group, which opened in Gambier on April 3, is the reporters. When Edgar Cochen passes himself from palace guard a moment, he walks in the back of the screen and picks a name out of the customs box, and changes himself in front of your eyes. Some changes are made, in the middle way, while it is moving, it describes the passage of time.

The children who chant the orange boxes change from orange in the living room. Nothing is hibber. The log beat out the stories and the boxes from behind Mammy's storming winds as the "Magic." Very tastefully they handle this transparent, NE's Southern Hum Street and kindly carded "Mr. Hines" tramp the kids with their dandies. They're slow and passionate.

In the quite grey behind this group, which opened in Gambier on April 3, is the reporters. When Edgar Cochen passes himself from palace guard a moment, he walks in the back of the screen and picks a name out of the customs box, and changes himself in front of your eyes. Some changes are made, in the middle way, while it is moving, it describes the passage of time.
to the Editors

Word from "ulp il" at the women's commons has it that Sarah would make the best of it. While this is a constructive form of communication, it is too little too late. Such a regimen should help to improve the PROPER condition of the women's house, but will not be enough to meet the objections of the women who are thereby proved wrong, for the establishment of the new dormitory is now far advanced. These objections are of a nature distinct from the previous ones of the women, and are being dealt with by a special committee.

Sincerely,
Michael Davis, Mark Denton
Sally Dibble, Dave Erickson
J. H. Plumber, Michael Pulliam.

To the Editors

Those who administer the prize for student writing awarded the following announcements for the announcement on the front page of the February 17 COL. The awards situation is critical, but a recent conversation with the remaining contest Offices enables us to revise the amounts of the prizes --

To win the first and second prizes of the Good Listener, luncheon certificates. The total is $10,000.

To win the third and fourth prizes of the Eighty-Four, luncheon certificates. The total is $6,000.

The University of Notre Dame cheerleading squad was recently awarded the title of All-American Challe...